Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given, octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 60th Congress, 1st session, is to be understood.

Notes of General Interest

With this number of the Monthly catalogue we revert to the original form, that of entering the publications by their Governmental authors, and supplementing this classed arrangement by an index, which will be made cumulative as formerly.

The return to the old and preferred form has become necessary on account of the law of March 1, 1907, which authorizes the shipment of the unbound Congressional documents and reports to the designated depository libraries. Some list of these Congressional publications must necessarily be furnished, and the form of entry herein adopted provides the most satisfactory basis for listing these publications.

The imperative demand for a working list of these pamphlet issues has operated in lieu of specific legislation, and by a more liberal interpretation of the present provisions the issue in this form is again made possible.

Besides this, the Monthly catalogue will be made complete, and will include entries for all Government publications published during the month, except those of a confidential or strictly official nature, and an additional symbol (‡) will be used to designate those publications which are not available, instead of omitting mention of them as has been the practice for the past year. It will be necessary for those using the catalogue to familiarize themselves with these signs in order to obtain the best results.

An additional improvement, suggested by numerous librarians, is the inclusion of the note "Not sent to designated depository libraries." This will provide a means by which the librarians of these institutions may know definitely which publications are not to be sent them free under the general provisions of law. It may be stated, however, that the publications in this class are not numerous, embracing only such as the publishing offices decide are not "made for distribution." When not confidential, these publications may be obtained by purchase from this Office, at the price stated in the Monthly catalogue.

The volume of work at present going through the Government Printing Office is very large. This issue of the Monthly catalogue shows that Departmental publications for the month of July have been unusually numerous, and their variety and interest are equally noticeable.

The Forest Service gives to a large and interested public a 5th edition and 3d revision of "The Use book," which contains in its 341 pages all the regulations and instructions for the use of the national forests. The title of this numerously-printed manual emphasizes the Government's forest policy, which, in the briefest terms, is: Preservation by rational use. The creation of national forests does not mean, though many have thought it did, that the forests have become dead property, no longer contributing to the nation's wealth. It means, on the contrary, that the woodlands are being farmed, as other lands are, and, while preserved from waste and destruction, are being put in a way to contribute more than ever before to the national wealth.

Horticulturists and pomologists will derive substantial benefit from Plant Industry Bureau Bulletin 126, a volume of 268 pages, all filled with the Nomenclature of the pear. It is a catalogue-index of the known varieties which have been mentioned in American publications during the 103 years, 1804–1907. The dates show of themselves that it is a work of great research, and it is quite as evident that only an expert, exceedingly familiar with the literature of his subject, could make such an extensive compilation on the nomenclature of a single fruit. In this case the expert is Mr. W. H. Ragan.

In Chemistry Bureau Circular 37, of which a reprint was issued July 6, Doctor Wiley gives the general results of his investigations upon the effects of sulphurous acid and sulphites upon digestion and health. He thinks the results of the inquiries as to the sulphurous preservatives are even more important than those relating to the boron compounds and salicylic acid and its salts. He is distinctly of the opinion that the administration of sulphurous acid in food produces serious injury to digestion and health. He also issues Part 4 of his Bulletin 84, in which he considers the influence of benzoic acid and benzoates and condemns their use as preservatives of food.

In Bulletin 344 the Geological Survey gives the results of extensive tests of concrete beams. As we have fairly entered upon the cement age, builders and contractors can not have too much sound information concerning the various forms in which concrete is used.

In an interesting circular, the Civil Service Commission gives full explanations concerning "veteran preference." Just what preference is given to former soldiers and sailors, the law upon which it is based, and the regulations under which the law is administered in examinations for the civil service and appointments thereto, are matters of more than passing moment, for the precedents now established may be followed for generations.

A Memorandum on hours of service law, by Luther M. Walter, attorney for the Interstate Commerce Commission, in which the objections that have been raised to the validity of the law are considered, is of importance to railroads and other common carriers.

Two very important treaties with Great Britain were proclaimed July 1, 1908. They relate to subjects which have been causes of dispute ever since the American eagle ceased to be a British subject and became an American citizen. They are the Canadian boundary and the fisheries—this time, however, not the Newfoundland fisheries, but those of lakes, rivers, and certain specified limited parts of the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. While the treaties are important, they are not final. They provide for the appointment of a series of commissions, through whose efforts it is hoped final settlement may come.

In a 3-page fascicule the Smithsonian Institution gives an idea of the character and purpose of the International catalogue of scientific literature, its methods of publication, and its cost. Seventeen volumes a year are issued. The United States is a party to the international arrangement on the subject and the Smithsonian is the "Regional Bureau" through which its share of the work is done.

Instructions for the guidance of postmasters and carriers in the conduct of the rural delivery service, promulgated by authority of the Postmaster-General, is the title of a pamphlet which relates to one of the biggest things in the country and one of the most rapidly growing. Although the rural mail delivery is hardly ten years old, it already costs nearly 40 millions a year, and serves approximately 25 million people.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, under its increased legal powers, is active in gathering information concerning the great transportation interests and giving it to the public. Publications for the month include Bulletin 2, entitled Conference rulings; Accident bulletin 27, giving the record of accidents for the first quarter of the current year; the first issue of Classification of operating revenues as prescribed by the Commission and two other new classifications; also three supplements to similar issues; Regulations for the transportation of explosives; Digest of proceedings in 59th Congress, 1st session, relating to regulation of railroad rates, and several others.

Index-catalogue of medical and veterinary zoology is the title of Bulletin 37, Hygienic Laboratory. It is the beginning of a subject list, of which the author list is Bulletin 39, Animal Industry Bureau, in many parts. The card catalogues from which these printed index-catalogues are drawn are arranged in three sections: Authors, Subjects, and Hosts. Any library worker knows what author catalogues and subject catalogues are, but how many of them ever made a host catalogue?

The Copyright Office issues a new print of its Bulletin 1, showing the copyright law as in force July 15, 1908. There have been no copyright enactments since 1905, but there have been several treaties extending reciprocal copyright arrangements to other countries.

The July Monthly consular and trade reports contains the usual world-wide budget of commercial information, far too varied and voluminous to be summarized here.

All who are interested in colonial administration should read the Seventh annual report of the Philippine Bureau of Civil Service, now separately published in this country.

The new parcels post convention between this country and Italy is now published.

A new edition of the Circular relating to the enlistment of men for the Navy gives black-type emphasis to the fact that Congress has increased the pay of enlisted men and petty officers 10 per cent.

Geological Survey Bulletin 345, Mineral resources of Alaska, is being republished in sections for economy and convenience. Section C relates to Copper River region and Prince William Sound; D to Yukon Basin; E to Seward Peninsula, and so on.

Parts 2 and 3 of Report of the commissioner of corporations on cotton exchanges are issued together in a thick pamphlet. Part 2 is entitled Classification of cotton and part 3 is Range of grades deliverable on contract.

Bulletin 64, Statistics Bureau, Agriculture Department, has the title Number and farm value of farm animals in the United States, 1867–1907. This is one of the series of 40-year statistical reviews of farm products and values which the Statistics Bureau for some time has been publishing. The total value of farm stock in 1867 was less than 1,000 millions. In 1907 it was more than 4,000 millions. The detailed tables are presented by States and also by years.

Animal Industry Bureau issues parts 20 and 21 of its Bulletin 39, which is the extensive Index-catalogue of medical and veterinary zoology. It is an alphabetical author list of the literature of this subject, and the present issues carry it to Ozzard, A. T., or not much more than half way through the alphabet.

The Crop reporter for July reports crop conditions as of July 1. The outlook is generally favorable.

That it may receive statistical returns from the custom-houses in convenient form for use in its publications, the Commerce and Labor Department issues schedules of classification for the use of the customs officers. New editions issued in July are Schedule A and Schedule B, classification of commodities; Schedule C, classification of foreign countries and dependencies; Schedule E, classification of merchandise.

A time and work saver is a 318-page book of Geographic tables and formulas from the Geological Survey.

Occasional papers 29 of the Engineer School, U. S. A., is on Riparian rights [in the] navigable waters in the United States.

The Isthmian Canal Commission issues a Manual of information concerning employments for service on the Isthmus of Panama.

Treaties for arbitration with Mexico and Norway, for extradition with Uruguay, and for conveyance of prisoners, wrecking, and salvage with Great Britain, have been proclaimed and published.

These are but a few samples from the voluminous and varied list of Government publications for the month of July, every one of which has had its own large or small public waiting for it.

A NEW PERIODICAL

The Navy Department has begun a new monthly periodical, called Navy and Marine Corps list and directory, published by the Navigation Bureau. The first number bears date July 1, 1908, and shows the station at that date of every officer of Navy and Marines. Each ensuing monthly number will give the same information corrected up to the date of publication. Previously the Department has issued the Navy register Jan. 1st and the List and station July 1st, giving the corrected information twice a year. In these days of the Navy's activity, a twice-a-year directory was found to be inadequate. Hence the change to a monthly publication, equivalent to the Army directory, which has been published monthly since 1891. The Superintendent of Documents has a large list of yearly subscribers for the Army directory, and no doubt soon will have for the Navy and Marine Corps list and directory. Its price has been fixed at 10 cents for a single copy and $1 for a yearly subscription, mailed free of postage. The annual Navy register will be continued as heretofore.

POSTAL GUIDES

That indispensable manual, the United States Official postal guide, has undergone a change. The July number will hereafter be the annual issue instead of the January number as heretofore. The issue for each month except July will be a small pamphlet of additions and corrections similar to those heretofore issued. The issue for the present month begins the Third series as vol. 1, no. 1. The First series began in 1874 and consists of 20 quarterly numbers. The Second series began in 1879 in the form which has grown so familiar by nearly 30 years of useful service. The new form has a broader page than the old, and a closer type, enabling the lists to be handled more conveniently. Of these broad pages it fills more than 700, all very closely packed. It is a businesslike publication, full of information but making no brags.

In this it differs somewhat from the Table of post offices in the United States, issued 1822 (the earliest postal guide in the Public Documents Library), which looks diminutive in comparison, but boasts quite freely of its mails, transported in stages 10,121 miles, and in sulkies and on horseback 10,616 miles more, making 20,737 miles a day. This was doing very well, but at present the rural free delivery alone discounts it many times over, while the railroad, steamboat, and trolley services add about 525,000,000 miles a year to the total. In 1822, as Postmaster-General Return Jonathan Meigs, jr., exultingly tells us, the mail was transported from Anson, Me., to Nashville, Tenn., 1,448 miles (spelled out in italics), by direct lines of stages. Also from St. Marys, Ga., to Highgate, Vt., 1,369 miles. He fails to tell us the time it took to make these long trips. Though the date of publication of his book is 1822, he adds: "These remarks apply to March, 1817."

The postal statistics of that day exceed ours in but one point: The rates of postage. In 1822 envelopes had not been invented and it cost to mail a "single letter, composed of one piece of paper," any distance not exceeding 30 miles, 6 cents; 80 miles, 10 cents; 150 miles, 12½ cents; 400 miles, 18¾ cents; over 400 miles, 25 cents. For two pieces of paper, double rate; for three pieces, triple rate; for four pieces, quadruple rate.

PUBLICATION OF DIPLOMATIC CORRESPONDENCE

March 27, 1818, Congress ordered the publication, under direction of the President, of sundry historical documents, among them "the foreign correspondence of the Congress of the United States, from the first meeting thereof down to the date of the ratification of the definitive treaty of peace between Great Britain and the United States in the year 1783," except such parts as the President might choose to withhold. The work of editing was intrusted to Jared Sparks, and he brought out, from the press of N. Hale, Boston, 1829–30, "The Diplomatic correspondence of the American Revolution," in twelve volumes. The edition ordered by Congress was 1,000 sets. John C. Rives printed in Washington, 1857, an edition in six volumes, of which 500 sets were taken by the State Department. May 5, 1832, Congress appropriated $12,000 "to enable the Secretary of State to cause to be printed, under his direction, a selection from the diplomatic correspondence of the United States, between the peace of 1783 and the 4th of Mar. 1789, remaining unpublished in the Department of State." Under this authority appeared, Washington, printed by Francis Preston Blair, 1833–34, in seven volumes, "The Diplomatic correspondence of the United States of America, from the signing of the definitive treaty of peace, 10th Sept. 1783, to the adoption of the Constitution, Mar. 4, 1789." This title can not be accepted as accurate, for though the Government created under the Constitution went into operation Mar. 4, 1789 (or would have done so if a Congressional quorum had assembled promptly), that is not the date of the adoption of the Constitution. A second edition of the Diplomatic correspondence, 1783–1789, was published in Washington, 1837, by Blair & Rives, and this was reprinted, 1855, in three volumes, by John C. Rives. Neither of these collections is found in the numbered series of Congressional documents. A new collection, edited by Francis Wharton, covering the same period that had been covered by Sparks, and entitled "The Revolutionary diplomatic correspondence of the United States," was issued by the Government Printing Office, 1889, in six volumes. Wharton restores the integrity of the text, with which Sparks had taken undue liberties, and adds much new matter. Wharton's collection is a numbered Congressional document of the 50th Congress, 1st session. Of this collection 7,000 sets were printed besides the "usual number" (1,900).

Prior to 1861 there was no annual publication of the general diplomatic correspondence which is carried on by and through the State Department. It was the custom of Congress from time to time to call for the correspondence on those subjects as to which it desired information. The material supplied in response to such calls was published in the Congressional document numbered series at irregular intervals. Among the documents accompanying the President's annual messages prior to 1861 are occasionally found diplomatic dispatches relating to special subjects which he desired to bring to the attention of Congress. In 1861 Secretary Seward submitted a volume of 439 pages made up of the general diplomatic correspondence of the year and entitled "Papers relating to foreign affairs." A similar volume has been sent to Congress each year since, with the single exception of 1869, when Secretary Fish sent only 16 pages of correspondence, all relating to a concession by the French Government for a submarine cable. In 1870 the title was changed to "Papers relating to the foreign relations of the United States," which has since been retained.

The Secretary of State is the only Cabinet officer who does not make an annual report. There is one exception to this rule, Secretary Olney having made in 1896 the only annual report of the State Department.

Hon. John W. Foster, a former Secretary of State, gives warning, in his "A Century of American diplomacy," that investigators may not depend on published documents for a full knowledge of the country's foreign relations, as the State Department exercises a large discretion in withholding dispatches from publication.

The annual volumes of Foreign relations, 1861 to date, are all numbered Congressional documents.

BANCROFT VERSUS RUSSELL

George Bancroft, the American historian, by invitation of Congress delivered a memorial eulogy on Abraham Lincoln in the Capitol, Feb. 12, 1866.

In the course of his address, referring to the breaking out of the war between the States, he said this: "The British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs made haste to send word through the palaces of Europe that the great Republic was in its agony; that the Republic was no more; that a headstone was all that remained due by the law of nations to 'the late Union'".

Earl Russell, better known to fame as Lord John Russell, was the British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs at the time, and, resenting Mr. Bancroft's statement, he wrote to Charles Francis Adams, American Minister to Great Britain, a letter (Feb. 28, 1866) in which he said: "As words pronounced on such an occasion and by so eminent a man as Mr. Bancroft may have an effect far beyond the injury which my personal character might suffer, I must request you to convey to Mr. Bancroft my denial of the truth of his allegations."

This letter was duly conveyed to Mr. Bancroft, and with an effect which could hardly have been anticipated by the British statesman. So far from withdrawing or repudiating his "allegations", Mr. Bancroft proceeded to prove them, and did so with a vigor and conclusiveness of course entirely courteous but none the less convincing.

The interesting correspondence, with some supplementary matter, is published in full as House mis. doc. 110, 39th Cong. 1st sess.; serial 1271.

Mr. Bancroft was born in 1800 and lived till 1891. He was Minister to England and to Germany, Secretary of the Navy, and founder of the Naval Academy. His history of the United States, in 12 volumes, covers the period from the discovery of the country to the inauguration of Washington as the first President. During his last years, which were spent in Washington, he became noted as a grower of roses.

NOTABLE REPORTS AND ADDRESSES

A list, continued from the June Monthly catalogue, of a few of the notable reports and addresses that have been made to Congress, showing where they may be found in the "sheep set":

Topographic sheets

NOTE.—The Geological Survey is making a topographic map of the United States. The sheets of which it is composed are projected without reference to political divisions, and are designated by some prominent town or natural feature found on them. Three scales are used, 1:62,500, 1:125,000, and 1:250,000. These correspond, approximately, to 1 mile, 2 miles, and 4 miles to 1 linear inch on the map. The size, unless otherwise given, is about 17.5 inches in height by 11.5 to 16 inches in width, exclusive of the margin, the width varying with the latitude. A description of the topographic map is printed on the reverse of each sheet.

About one-third of the area of the country, excluding outlying possessions, has been mapped, nearly every State being represented. Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, and the District of Columbia are completely mapped. Sheets of the regular size are sold by the Survey at 5c. each; but in lots of 100 or more copies, whether of the same sheet or of different sheets, the price is 3c. each. In no case can orders be filled at the wholesale rate unless the sum remitted solely for topographic maps amounts to at least $3.00.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

NOTE.—In its latest price-list the Smithsonian Institution publishes this note: "The publications of the Smithsonian Institution are: 1, Contributions to knowledge; 2, Miscellaneous collections; 3, annual reports; 4, special publications. No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The volumes of Contributions and of Miscellaneous collections are distributed only to public libraries and to learned institutions and societies in this country and abroad. A small edition of the papers in these two series is printed separately for sale or exchange. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remains to supply demands from other sources. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be had by purchase from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. The papers printed in the annual reports are published separately for free distribution. Publications should be ordered by the serial number. Remittances should be made payable to 'Smithsonian Institution.' An application from a library should state the number of volumes in the library and the date of establishment, and have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.

Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given, octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 60th Congress, 1st session, is to be understood.

Notes of General Interest

The new edition of the Checklist of United States public documents is making gratifying progress. Twenty-two new sheets were printed and issued during August.

Treasury decisions, vol. 15, Army regulations, 1908, and Customs regulations, 1908, are among the more important documents issued during the month.

Dr. Wright's papers in the numbers of the Naval medical bulletin for April and July on the mercurial treatment of tuberculosis have aroused so wide an interest that it has been determined to print a special edition of them for the International Tuberculosis Congress which is to sit in Washington from Sept. 21 to Oct. 12 of the present year. This reprint will also be sold by the Superintendent of Documents.

A new edition of Diplomatic and consular service, corrected to July 27, 1908, has been published.

Mr. Ford's Bibliographical notes on the issues of the Continental Congress in 1779, in quarto form, is the most recent publication of the Library of Congress.

The Bureau of Equipment, Navy Department, wants a blue printer and has asked that an eligible list for employees of that gloomy color be established.

The schedules of the 1st Census of the United States, that of 1790, are now receiving their first printing. Those containing the names of the heads of families in South Carolina are given in the latest volume, which also reproduces a map of the date of 1796 and has an interesting introduction containing facts about census taking in the first years of the Republic.

Plant Industry Bureau Bulletin 129 throws light on that mysterious ailment of horses and cattle in the West, the loco-weed disease.

Of the many classifications of railroad accounting made by the Interstate Commerce Commission, the latest is the first issue of Classification of revenues and expenses for outside operations.

The "International list" of money-order postoffices in foreign countries has just been issued by the Post-Office Department, with models of money orders, rates, instructions, etc.

The 1907 issue of the Yearbook of the Agriculture Department, the book which is printed in a larger edition than any other in this or any country, is just off the press. Though dated 1907, it is really the issue for 1908, the edition being so large that it is always of necessity printed in the recess between the two sessions of Congress, a fact which makes it appear to be late. As a matter of fact, however, its statistics are brought up to the present year and its contents are always fresh and valuable.

May 29, 1798, the House of Representatives resolved "that the Secretary of the Treasury do lay before the House annually a statement of the goods, wares, and merchandises imported into the U. S. in each year from the year 1796," etc. In compliance with this order a statement was annually compiled by the Register of the Treasury, transmitted to the House by the Secretary, and printed as a House document till 1820, usually under a title substantially like this: "Letter from the Secretary of the Treasury transmitting statements of goods, wares, and merchandise imported in American and foreign vessels." Feb. 10, 1820, an act was passed calling for a much more detailed and comprehensive annual statement, giving exports and domestic and foreign tonnage as well as imports. The compilations under this act were also made by the Register of the Treasury, the first being for 1821. In transmitting the 1821 compilation to Congress the then Secretary of the Treasury (Crawford) stated that it was sent in conformity with the act of Feb. 10, 1821; in transmitting the 1822 report he gave the date of the act as Jan. 10, 1820; not till the third attempt, 1823, did he get the correct date, Feb. 10, 1820. Whether these slips helped to inspire confidence in the general accuracy of the work does not appear. The title "Commerce and navigation of the United States" was first used in 1821: it has been continued to the present time. The word "Foreign" was prefixed in 1881 and has been retained, and there have been at times supplemental volumes on "Internal commerce" and on "Immigration," and at times the words "Immigration and tonnage" have been included in the title, but the words "Commerce and navigation," in this order, have been the backbone of the title since 1821, and by them alone the set is known and identified. "Commerce and navigation" has always been included in the Congressional document series, and from 1822 to 1860 it was duplicated, appearing in both the Senate and the House series, except for the years 1831, 1832, 1847, 1848, 1850. For the years 1850–69 it was issued without document number. In 1831, 1832, and 1848 it was a House document only. In 1847 it was a Senate document only. Until 1849 it was a small document, bound up with others. From 1850 to 1875 it was a separate volume, octavo. In 1876 it was in two volumes, 1877 in one, 1878 in two (three in the cloth edition), 1879 in one, 1880 in two, 1881 in one, 1882 in two, 1883 in one, 1884, 1885, 1886, and 1887 in two volumes each year, 1888 in one, 1889, 1890, and 1891 in two, 1892 in one, 1893 in three, 1894 in two, 1895 in three, 1896 in three, 1897 in two, 1898 in one. From 1899 to 1904 two volumes were issued each year. The later issues are in one volume. It was an octavo till 1893, when it became a quarto, and the main volumes have so continued, though the Immigration and passenger movement volumes for 1893–95 are thin octavos. Beginning with 1850, there has also been a cloth-bound edition without document number. The work was compiled by the Register of the Treasury from the beginning till 1865. By act of July 28, 1866, the Bureau of Statistics, Treasury Department, was created, under charge of a Director, and the compilation of the annual report on Commerce and navigation was made a part of its duties. The Director of Statistics issued the reports for 1866 and 1867. The office of the Director was abolished Jan. 1, 1869, but the Bureau remained, and a Deputy Special Commissioner of the Revenue was appointed and put in charge of it. He issued Commerce and navigation for 1868 and 1869. Then a Chief of the Bureau of Statistics was appointed, and by that officer the report has since been annually issued. With but one exception, Commerce and navigation has always been a compilation of the transactions of the fiscal year, which before 1843 ended Sept. 30. By act of Aug. 26, 1842, the fiscal year was changed to end June 30, the act taking effect July 1, 1843. The Commerce and navigation report for 1843 bridged the gap between the old and new fiscal years by covering only nine months, from Sept. 30, 1842, to June 30, 1843.

ANTI-NOBILITY AMENDMENT

Amendment prohibiting acceptance of title, pension, office, or emolument from foreign power by citizens of United States.

This proposed amendment came so near to adoption that for many years it was generally supposed to have been adopted, and in the first volume of the Bioren edition of the Laws of the United States, printed by authority of Congress in Washington, 1815, it is incorporated in the text as the 13th amendment to the Constitution. It was so printed, also, in the official edition of the Constitution supplied to the members of the House of Representatives at the opening of the 15th Congress, Dec. 1817. It was submitted to the States by Congress May 1, 1810, and no further Congressional action was taken till Dec. 31, 1817, when the House passed a resolution calling for information as to the number of States which had ratified the proposed amendment. To this President Monroe responded Feb. 4, 1818, by transmitting a report from the Secretary of State (John Quincy Adams) showing that twelve States (Delaware, Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, and Vermont) had ratified, that three States (Connecticut, New York, and Rhode Island) had rejected, that South Carolina was in doubt, and that Virginia had not been heard from. The States being then seventeen in number, this completed the roll, and as thirteen (being three-fourths of the whole) were required to make the ratification effective, it fell short one State. Feb. 27, 1818, President Monroe transmitted a further report, showing that South Carolina had failed to ratify by the nonaction of the House branch of the Legislature, the ratification voted by the State Senate being thus made inoperative, and that Virginia was still unheard from. There have been no further official communications on the subject, and Virginia has not been heard from to this day. The proposed anti-nobility amendment therefore remains unratified, but possibly action sufficient for ratification might still lawfully be taken by Virginia or South Carolina. The prohibition which the proposed amendment would have placed upon citizens of the United States had previously been placed upon officials by section 9, Article I, of the Constitution.

NATIONAL HOME FOR DISABLED VOLUNTEER SOLDIERS

The National Asylum for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers was incorporated under an act of Congress approved Mar. 21, 1866, providing for a Board of Managers composed of the President, the Secretary of War, the Chief Justice, and nine others who were appointed by joint resolution approved Apr. 21, 1866. An act had been approved Mar. 3, 1865, naming 100 incorporators for a like purpose, but no action was taken under it. The Board of 12 created by the act of 1866 met for organization May 16 in that year, and chose Gen. B. F. Butler as its first president. Under this organization the various national homes for volunteer soldiers have been created and conducted. The Soldiers' Home at Washington, being for the Regular Army, is not under the jurisdiction of the Board, nor are the various State homes for soldiers. By act of Jan. 23, 1873, it was provided that the name "Asylum" be dropped and the word "Home" be substituted. The first soldiers were received Oct. 1867, at the Eastern Branch, near Augusta, Me., the first Home to be established. The Board publishes annual reports, which are found in the set of numbered House documents. It also publishes Proceedings, Records, etc., which are not numbered documents. The law prohibits any one who has been in rebellion against the U. S. Government from serving as a member of the Board of Managers. The term of office is six years. The officers are paid for their services, the other Managers receiving only their expenses.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

NOTE.—In its latest price list the Smithsonian Institution publishes this note: "The publications of the Smithsonian Institution are: 1, Contributions to knowledge; 2, Miscellaneous collections; 3, annual reports; 4, special publications. No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The volumes of Contributions and of Miscellaneous collections are distributed only to public libraries and to learned institutions and societies in this country and abroad. A small edition of the papers in these two series is printed separately for sale or exchange. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remains to supply demands from other sources. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be had by purchase from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. The papers printed in the annual reports are published separately for free distribution. Publications should be ordered by the serial number. Remittances should be made payable to 'Smithsonian Institution.' An application from a library should state the number of volumes in the library and the date of establishment, and have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.

Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given, octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 60th Congress, 1st session, is to be understood.

Notes of General Interest

Among the most interesting documents issued during September by the Government are two which were compiled as well as printed in the Government Printing Office. These are (1) the 7th volume in the Document catalogue series, listing the Government publications of the period of the 58th Congress, 1903–05, and (2) a new edition of the Manual of style, by which the copy-preparers, proofreaders, and compositors of the Government Printing Office are guided in their intricate and difficult work. The new catalogue is the largest yet published, but considerably smaller than either of those issued for the 55th, 56th, and 57th Congresses. This is not a contradiction in terms, though it sounds like it. The book is larger than its predecessors, because it contains several hundred more pages and records several thousand more publications, but it is smaller than the other volumes, because by the use of thinner and better paper the thickness and weight of the book have been much reduced. It is believed that all issues of the Document catalogue have been welcome in the chief libraries of the country, but no. 7 will perhaps be unusually so because of the hindrances which have delayed its publication. It will still be some days before it can be forwarded to the designated depository libraries, the work of binding it in full sheep as a Congressional document being not yet complete. It is House doc. 483, 58th Congress, 3d session, being v. 122 of that series and no. 4901 in the general series of volumes of Congressional documents. The provision of law that Congressional documents shall be bound in cloth will first take effect on documents of the 60th Congress. All delayed documents of earlier Congresses will be bound in sheepskin as in former years. A part of the nondocumented clothbound edition of Document catalogue 7 has been received from the binders and sale orders can be filled at $2 each. The new Manual of style of the Government Printing Office also has been somewhat delayed since the first announcement of its forthcoming issue, and many persons have been awaiting its publication with interest. As finally issued, the Manual is a compact pamphlet of only 91 pages presenting a great body of information without circumlocution or verbiage. The number of printers, publishers, writers, and editors who have good use for the Government Printing Office Manual of style is large. They can be supplied with copies by purchase from the Superintendent of Documents at 15 cents a copy.

Bulletin 76 of the Labor Bureau, dated May, 1908, but only recently issued, contains two papers of special importance and interest. Their titles are (1) The Canadian industrial disputes investigation act of 1907; (2) What is done for the unemployed in European countries? Bulletin 77, the July issue, treats exhaustively these themes: Wages and hours of labor, 1890–1907; Retail prices of food, 1890–1907; Compensation for injured Government employees.

Another September issue is the Compilation of customs laws and digest of decisions by courts and general appraisers, brought down to Jan. 1, 1908, a book of 1383 pages which will no doubt be found very useful by importers and certain Government officials.

Treasury Department circular 62, series of 1908, giving information as to bonds, currency, precious metals, and so forth, has been issued in pamphlet form. It contains and extends knowledge of the subjects which were treated in Treasury Department circulars 123 and 136, series of 1896; 143, series of 1897; 113, series of 1900, and 72, series of 1904. All of these were issued as pamphlets and were distributed in great numbers. The bond and currency issues of the United States are so numerous and varied that knowledge of them is a matter of considerable intricacy, and the people have seemed thankful for information concerning them.

The provisions of law relating to the State Department, the diplomatic and consular services, and the relations of the United States with foreign countries have been collected and published in a pamphlet.

The Manufactures Bureau has issued a new report on trade conditions in Mexico.

There is a new print of "Suggestions to homesteaders," the pamphlet dear to the hearts of those who have joined the great movement toward the irrigated and other vacant public lands of the great West.

This month's Catalogue records another one of the numerous editions of the Act to regulate commerce, as amended, and acts supplementary thereto, including the safety appliance acts, acts requiring monthly reports of accidents, arbitration acts, and hours of service act.

Arbitration treaties with Japan and Sweden were proclaimed Sept. 1.

The edition of the Consular and diplomatic service corrected to Sept. 1 has been issued. It is an interesting manual of 88 pages, containing the names and stations of all ambassadors, ministers, consuls-general, consuls, and consular agents of the United States and their official records from the beginning of their service; also the laws and regulations governing the service, and samples of question papers used in consular examinations. Those who are curious as to the nature of these examinations may here satisfy their curiosity.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has issued no. 2 of its series entitled Conference rulings.

The Government Roads Bureau (Public Roads Office) is encountering new problems since the automobile began sucking the dust out of the macadam roads and scattering it over the face of the landscape. The macadam road seemed to settle for all time the question of the best country wagon road, but the automobile has made new contrivances necessary. The Public Roads Office has sensibly recognized that the auto has "come to stay" and that fighting it would be unwise, and has turned its attention to the difficult task of providing wagon roads that motor cars will not destroy. Bulletin 34, Dust preventives, is a contribution to this new practical study.

Naval Surgeon Barton L. Wright has aroused a wide interest in the medical world by two papers on Treatment of tuberculosis by administration of mercury, published in the April and July numbers of the United States naval medical bulletin, a quarterly periodical published by the Medicine and Surgery Bureau, U. S. N. Dr. Wright's papers are now presented in pamphlet form separate from the Bulletin.

The civil-service examinations announced for October include those for a hydrographic draftsman in the Coast Survey; a law examiner in the Forest Service; a trained nurse in the Indian service; an aid in the Division of Insects, National Museum; a librarian for the Naval War College; a laboratory aid in the Plant Industry Bureau; a library assistant for the Agriculture Department; cataloguers for the Documents Office—a tolerably varied assortment.

A new edition of the Register of the Department of State, corrected to August 12, 1908, is among the publications of the month.

A new disease, long a scourge in some parts of Europe, has recently invaded this country. Its popular name is an Italian word, pellagra, and it is supposed to be caused by eating spoiled corn. The Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service has issued a précis on the subject.

The report of the American Historical Association for 1906, 2 v., is now ready and can be supplied by the Superintendent of Documents.

Customs regulations of the United States, edition of 1908, is one of the September issues which interest a large number of citizens. It is supplied by the Superintendent of Documents, price $1.75.

Volume 13, Decisions of the Interstate Commerce Commission, also called Interstate Commerce Commission reports, is a document which many have been awaiting. The volumes of this series, up to v. 12, were issued by a private publishing firm, but are now supplied by the Superintendent of Documents. The price of v. 13 is $2.

PUBLICATION OF THE LAWS

There have been many compilers, many printers, many publishers, many editors, many editions, of the laws of the United States, but four series only have been compiled, printed, and distributed at Government charge, have been legally recognized as authoritative, and may rightfully be considered public documents within the accepted definitions. These are the Folwell edition, 1795–1815; the Bioren edition, 1815–45; the Little & Brown edition, 1845–73; the State Department edition, from 1873. Besides these four, the only important edition of the text of the public and general laws beginning with the foundation of the Government is the "Story edition," published at Boston, 1827, by Wells & Lilly, "under the inspection of Joseph Story, Justice of the Supreme Court." It was in three volumes, and two volumes in continuation were issued at Philadelphia, 1837 and 1848, edited by George Sharswood. Before 1795 the only statutory provisions as to printing the laws were those of Sept. 15, 1789, giving the Secretary of State custody of the originals and directing him to supply one printed copy to each Senator and Representative; of June 14, 1790, directing the Secretary to publish the treaties; and of Feb. 18, 1791, which permitted "Andrew Brown or any other printer" intending to publish the laws to compare his prints with the original rolls in the office of the Secretary of State. Pamphlet editions of the laws of each session were, however, issued by several printers, and for many years also by the Secretary of State under authority of Congress.

Folwell edition.—Mar. 3, 1795, President Washington approved the act which led to the issue of the so-called Folwell edition, the first collected edition of the laws. It was entitled "An act for the more general promulgation of the laws," and provided that the Secretary of State should cause to be printed, at public expense, an edition of the Constitution, treaties, and laws then in force, with index, 4,500 copies to be printed, 500 for Congress and 4,000 to be apportioned among the States and Territories on the basis of their representation in Congress, and that future laws and treaties should be printed and distributed in like manner. Under this sanction a three-volume edition was printed at Philadelphia by Richard Folwell. All of the volumes bear the imprint date 1796, though vol. 3 contains the legislation of the 4th Congress, which continued until Mar. 3, 1797. In this edition each law is numbered as a chapter and in vols. 1 and 2 a new set of numbers begins with each session. In the later volumes one set of numbers runs through a whole Congress. Each private act has a number, but the text of private acts is not given. This is true also of acts which have been repealed or which have expired by the payment of appropriations or the expiration of dates. Folwell's volumes have no prefaces, introductions, notes, or other "apparatus," but the words "Published by authority" appear on the title-pages. Folwell issued in 1799 his vol. 4, containing the legislation of the 5th Congress. This volume was issued also by two other Philadelphia publishers, Mathew Carey and William Ross, and the latter's book appears to have been printed from Folwell's type, though it has not the same title-page. By act of Mar. 2, 1799, the edition was increased to 9,500 copies. In vol. 5 and the succeeding volumes the text of the private acts is given. Beginning with vol. 11 (12th Congress) the joint resolutions are numbered as chapters in the same series with the acts. Vol. 5 was printed at Philadelphia by Folwell, and Samuel Harrison Smith of Washington made an edition in which his title-page is pasted in before Folwell's. All the later volumes were issued at Washington. Vol. 6 was printed by William Duane and

vol. 7 by Duane & Son. Vols. 8–12 have the imprint of Roger C. Weightman. Vols. 9–11 were also "Printed for the Department of State." Vol. 12 gives the legislation of the 1st and 2d sessions of the 13th Congress. Vol. 13 covers the 3d session of the same Congress, bringing the record down to Mar. 3, 1815. All, except the State Department print of vol. 9, have on their title-pages the words "Published by authority."

Bioren edition.—Apr. 18, 1814, President Madison approved an act looking to the issue of a more complete and satisfactory edition of the laws. It provided for a Government subscription to 1,000 sets of a new edition to be edited and compiled upon a plan presented by the Secretary of State and the Attorney-General, the editor to be selected by the Secretary; also that the succeeding laws be published in the same form and distributed in the same manner. Richard Rush, Attorney-General, under date of June 10, 1814, sent to James Monroe, Secretary of State, a long statement of his plan of publication, which the Secretary at once concurred in. In this statement it was said that "the want of a full and complete edition of the laws of Congress has long been felt." The new plan required that all laws, though obsolete, repealed, or private, be printed; but laws relating solely to the District of Columbia were necessarily excluded, because that requirement had been embodied in the law authorizing the publication. By this plan it was also required that every act published should be compared with the originals; that all important acts, ordinances, or resolutions of the "old Congress" (Continental Congress) be included; full marginal notes to be given; the "common figure" (Arabic) to be used for all numbers and dates; each volume to have an index; the last volume to have a very full general index to the whole; treaties, constitution, and historical documents to be indexed as well as the laws; "it would be better to put the same thing down more than once in the index," said Mr. Rush, "than indulge too freely the practice of referring from one head to another." Secretary Monroe appointed John B. Colvin as editor. Under his editorship the "Bioren edition," 5 volumes, was published, 1815, by John Bioren and W. John Duane, Philadelphia, and R. C. Weightman, Washington city. Vol. 1 contains the great historical documents, treaties, and reprints from the journals of the "old Congress." In this edition the chapter numbers run by volumes, not by Congresses or by sessions. A new set of numbers begins with each volume. The joint resolutions are numbered in a separate series, beginning a new set of numbers with each session. In vol. 1 chapter number 102 is duplicated, that number being given to the last act of the 1st Congress and also to the first act of the 2d Congress. In his first volume Mr. Colvin made a somewhat serious error by adding to his print of the Constitution a 13th amendment which was then pending, but had not been ratified by a sufficient number of States, and has not been so ratified to this day. Mr. Colvin admitted in his preface that he did not know that the amendment had been ratified, but he knew that it had been ratified by 12 States, and evidently he thought that at least one of the five yet unheard from would turn up on the same side. The proposed 13th amendment was submitted to the States by the 11th Congress at its 2d session (May 1, 1810) and it was not until 1818 that it was ascertained that it had not been ratified. There were then 17 States, and the affirmative action of 13 was required. Twelve ratified promptly, four rejected, and Virginia was never heard from. In South Carolina the Senate approved, and if the House had concurred the amendment would have been ratified. It was in fact for many years the popular belief that it had been ratified. As lately as 1843 it so appeared in various histories. This popular misconception is no doubt largely due to the error in the first volume of the accepted and official edition of the laws. The proposed amendment was to deprive of citizenship any citizen who should accept a title or any form of emolument from a foreign power without the consent of Congress. Vol. 2 contains the laws, 1789–97 (1st–4th Cong.) as in "old volumes" (Folwell edition) 1–3. Vol. 3, laws, 1797–1805 (5th–8th Cong.) as in "old volumes" 4–7. Vol. 4, laws, 1805–1815 (9th–13th Cong.) as in "old volumes" 9–13. Vol. 5 is the general index. The volumes in continuation of the Bioren edition, which were contemplated and provided for by the act of Apr. 18, 1814, were issued as follows: Vol. 6, edited by John B. Colvin, published by Davis & Force, Washington, 1822. Vol. 7, published by W. A. Davis, 1827; this volume has a general index, 1789–1827, compiled by Samuel Burch, which was also published separately. Vol. 8, by W. A. Davis, 1835. Vol. 9, printed by order of Congress, 1839. Vol. 10, printed by J. & G. S. Gideon, 1845. All of these volumes after the 5th have on their title-pages this sentence: "Corresponding with, and intended as a continuation of, the edition of Bioren & Co."

Little & Brown edition (Statutes at large).—By 1845 Congress had apparently tired of the Bioren edition as it had formerly tired of the Folwell edition. From 1831, Duff Green, Richard Peters, and Little & Brown had been memorializing in favor of a new stereotyped edition, and in 1829, 1832, and 1842, there had been strongly favorable reports by Congressional committees. Finally, Mar. 3, 1845 (28th Cong. 2d sess.), a joint resolution was adopted and approved by which the Attorney-General was authorized to contract with Little & Brown, of Boston, for 1,000 copies (sets) of a new edition of the general laws in four volumes, with the private laws and the treaties in two additional volumes, all to be arranged in strict chronological order. The requirement of chronological arrangement, while the private laws were printed in a separate volume, forced upon the unwilling editor, Richard Peters, the hippity-skippity scheme of numbering the chapters which still obtains and makes the Statutes at large peculiar. The scheme thus begun in 1845 is that of arranging all the laws, both public and private, in chronological order and numbering them in that order, then separating the private from the public laws and printing them in separate places, the numbers necessarily being irregular and non-consecutive in both places. Little & Brown were required to print from stereotype plates and to secure to the Government such an interest in these plates that it might be sure of having future editions free from hindrance or extortion. The new series of laws, like both its predecessors, went back to the beginning and reprinted the Declaration of Independence and all succeeding enactments. The series was called Statutes at large. The collective laws of a session were called a "Statute" and designated by the number of the session, while each law was numbered as a chapter, a new set of chapter-numbers beginning with each session. This method of numbering the chapters has been continued to the present time. The Statute headings were dropped out of the text after the 28th Congress, but are even now continued in the table of contents, the word "Statutes," however, having been in late years substituted for "Statute." Though the first contract with Little & Brown in 1845 was for but six volumes, successive contracts extended the work till 17 volumes of the Statutes at large had been issued. Vols. 1–5 contain the public laws to the end of the 28th Congress, Mar. 3, 1845; vol. 6, private laws, 1789–1845; vol. 7, Treaties with Indian tribes, 1778–1845; vol. 8, Foreign treaties and general index; vols. 9–17, Public and private laws, treaties, proclamations, etc., Mar. 4, 1845, to Mar. 3, 1873, the end of the 42d Congress. Richard Peters was editor of vols. 1–8, George Minot of vols. 9 and 10, George Minot and George P. Sanger of vol. 11, George P. Sanger of vols. 12–17. The main lines of the title-page read in vols. 1–8, "Public statutes at large"; in vols. 9–11, "Statutes at large and treaties"; in vols. 12–15, "Statutes at large, treaties, and proclamations"; in vols. 16 and 17, "Statutes at large and proclamations." During all the term of their contract for the publication of the Statutes at large, Little & Brown published, in identical form except the binding, the acts of each session separately ("pamphlet laws").

State Department edition.—June 24, 1874, Congress discontinued the contract with Little & Brown and directed the Secretary of State to publish the Revised statutes, the pamphlet laws, and the Statutes at large. The Secretary wisely made his series a continuation of that of Little & Brown, instead of reprinting everything from the foundation as had been previously done when a new series was begun. The first volume of Statutes at large issued by the State Department was vol. 18, part 3, containing the legislation of the 43d Congress and the treaties negotiated and proclamations promulgated during the term of that Congress, Mar. 4, 1873–Mar. 3, 1875. The "part 3" attached to vol. 18 has been a stumbling block, because parts 1 and 2 have no part numbers, nor even volume numbers, nor even the title "Statutes at large," on their title-pages. There is nothing whatever in the books themselves to connect them with vol. 18, part 3, of the Statutes at large. This very defective method of publishing has been a continual source of embarrassment since the volumes were issued in 1875. Part 1 is the first edition of the first volume of the Revised statutes. Part 2 contains three distinct collections, separately titled, paged, and indexed, namely: Revised statutes relating to the District of Columbia; Revised statutes relating to post roads, and Public treaties of the United States in force Dec. 1, 1873. From the 43d Congress to the 56th, the State Department issued a new volume of Statutes at large for each Congress, the volume numbers being consecutive, 18 to 31. When the legislation of the 57th Congress, with the treaties and proclamations of its period, 1901–03, was collected, it was found too extensive for a single volume, and volume 32 was published in two parts, part 1 containing the public laws and part 2 containing the private laws, concurrent resolutions, treaties, and proclamations. Concurrent resolutions were first printed with the laws of the 53d Congress, in vol. 28, Statutes at large, and their publication has been continued, as directed by the law of Jan. 12, 1895 (Stat. L. v. 28, p. 615). The State Department series follows closely the methods of the Little & Brown series. The Department issues also after each session a pamphlet print of the laws, treaties, and proclamations of the session. The pamphlets are identical in size of page, method of numbering, annotation, etc., with the volumes of the Statutes at large.

Revised statutes.—As early as 1848 the bulk of the Statutes at large, then filling 9 volumes, led to a desire for a revision, excluding private and obsolete enactments and including the whole body of permanent general laws of the United States in one volume. In 1848 there was a strong report from the House Judiciary Committee in favor of revision, and other similar reports followed, but it was not till 1866 that three commissioners were appointed to make the revision. The efforts of this commission proved inadequate, mainly if not wholly because of the resignation of its chairman, Caleb Cushing, to go on a diplomatic mission to Bogota. In 1870 a second commission of three was chosen, and produced the code which was reenacted by Congress June 22, 1874, and published in 1875, the volume containing also, as an appendix, an act to correct errors and supply omissions, approved Feb. 18, 1875. In 1877 George S. Boutwell was appointed to make another revision preparatory to a 2d edition. This edition was published in 1878, and is the legal standard. A Supplement to the Revised statutes has been issued as follows: Vol. 1, 1881; Vol. 1, 2d edition, 1891; Vol. 2, no. 1, 1892; Vol. 2, no. 2, 1893; Vol. 2, nos. 1–5, 1895; Vol. 2, no. 6, 1896; Vol. 2, no. 7, 1897; Vol. 2, no. 8, 1899; Vol. 2, no. 9, 1901. The ninth number completed vol. 2 of the Supplement, which was thereupon issued in bound form with title-page and index. In neither edition (1875 and 1878) of vol. 1, Revised statutes, are the services of an editor recognized. Of the Supplement, both editions of vol. 1, 1881 and 1891, were edited by William A. Richardson. Of vol. 2 of the Supplement, parts 1–6 were edited by W. A. Richardson, assisted by George A. King and William B. King; parts 7–9 were edited by George A. King and William B. King with the cooperation of Edwin C. Brandenburg. The laws have never been published in the Congressional series of numbered documents.

Slip laws.—From the very outset there have been authorized prints of the individual laws separately and pamphlet editions of the laws of each regular and special session. The first action in reference to the separate prints of the individual laws of which record has been found in the published documents is a joint resolution adopted by the Senate June 4, 1789, and by the House next day. It provides that within ten days after the passage of any law 22 printed copies of it shall be lodged with the President, two copies to be by him sent to the chief officer of each State. (There were then but 11 States, Rhode Island and North Carolina having not yet ratified the Constitution.) This is a very early resolution, but its terms imply that "slip laws" were already being printed at the time of its adoption. While files of them have not been preserved, and the history of their publication can not be clearly made out, there is little doubt that they have been regularly printed from the beginning of the Government. Under the present practice, the slip laws are carefully edited and proof-read in the Rolls and Library Bureau, State Department, and printed as promptly as possible after their passage. Each law, no matter what its length, is a separate publication. The public and the private laws are arranged in two numerical series, each series being separately numbered in chronological order. The edition printed is 2,110 copies of public laws and 760 copies of private laws, of which 500 copies of each kind go for distribution to the Rolls and Library Bureau, State Department, 60 copies to the Treasury Department, and the remainder to Congress. The "slip laws" are accepted as authoritative by the courts until the Statutes are published. As the "slip laws" are not collected in volumes, no title-pages or indexes are issued for them. They do not even show the Congress or session at which they were enacted, though that may be determined by the date of approval which appears at the end of each act. As the "slip laws" are numbered in two series, and the same laws, as chapters in the Statutes at large, are numbered in one series, the numbers do not agree, and reference from one to the other was difficult till the issue of vol. 32, Statutes at large (57th Congress). In this and succeeding volumes the slip number is given in a side note opposite the chapter number, as it is also in the pamphlet laws for the 57th and succeeding Congresses.

Pamphlet laws.—Under this name and that of "Session laws" are known the editions of the laws of each session of Congress which are issued in paper covers as soon as practicable after the close of the session, and are subsequently, and practically without change of form, incorporated in the Statutes at large. In some form or other, pamphlet laws have been issued and distributed at Government charge from the beginning of Government under the Constitution. In 1818, when the edition was increased to 11,000, it was stated that previously it had been 10,000. It remained at 11,000 for many years. Under the printing law of 1895 the edition is 11,500, including 1,000 to be sold by the Superintendent of Documents. In the 37th Congress, 1st session (1861), the laws of that session were printed as a numbered Congressional document, House mis. doc. 23.

This is the only instance of the publication of the pamphlet laws in a numbered series of Congressional documents.

Newspaper publication.—One of the provisions of the first statute in relation to publishing the laws directed the Secretary of State to have them printed in three newspapers. With various changes in the number of papers, this kind of publication was continued till Mar. 4, 1875, when it was prohibited by law.

Indexes.—The first general index to the laws was that made in accordance with the plan of Attorney-General Richard Rush. It is vol. 5 of the Bioren edition of the laws and was compiled by J. B. Colvin and published in 1815. The period covered is Mar. 4, 1789, to Mar. 4, 1815. It is not properly an index, but a digest. Its entries undertake to show not only where a law is but also all that is in it. Some of its entries are two pages long and many a page or half-page. It was found cumbersome and no other like it has been made. Mr. Colvin himself, in the preface to vol. 6, Bioren edition, condemns the too voluminous index in vol. 5 and follows quite a different method in making the volume index to vol. 6. The next general index was compiled by Samuel Burch under authority of a House resolution of May 15, 1824, and printed with vol. 7 of the Bioren edition, 1828, and also separately. It covers the period Mar. 4, 1789, to Mar. 3, 1827. It is full, but not unduly full, and was highly esteemed in its day. Jan. 11, 1849, the Senate adopted a resolution directing the Secretary of the Senate to "contract with a suitable person to compile a synoptical index to the laws and treaties in continuation of" Burch's index of 1828. Mar. 11, 1850, the Secretary reported to the Senate that the new index was complete. A contract was made with Little & Brown to publish it, and it appeared in 1852. Instead of being a continuation of Burch, it incorporates his index and thus covers the whole period, Mar. 4, 1789, to Mar. 3, 1851. It is similar in plan to Burch's index, and its references are to both the Bioren and the Little & Brown editions. There were reprints 1853 and 1856. With the 8th volume of the Statutes at large, 1867, was printed a general index to vols. 1–8 of that series, in which are contained the laws, treaties, and proclamations, 1789–1845. The revision of the laws, and the issue of the Revised statutes from 1873 onward, has done away with the urgent need for general indexes to the laws.

Digests.—The first general digest of the laws appears to have been Ingersoll's, 1821, and the next Thomas F. Gordon's, 1st edition 1827, 2d edition 1837, 3d edition 1844, 4th edition 1851. Gordon's Digest was for many years one of the books bought by Congress and supplied to its members. Brightley's Analytical digest was printed in successive editions, 1858, 1863, 1865, and 1869. There have been many collections and digests of the laws relating to particular subjects, as Heyl's Revenue laws, 1868; Mayo's Pension laws, 1833, and others, but these should be considered in connection with the subjects to which they relate.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

NOTE.—The publications of the United States Geological Survey consist of annual reports (restricted to one volume each, beginning with report for 1902), bulletins, Mineral resources, Professional papers, and Water-supply papers, formerly Water-supply and irrigation papers; and maps, Monographs, and folios of the Geologic atlas and the Topographic atlas of the United States, which are sold at prices ranging from 5c. to $11.00 each. A wholesale rate has been established for topographic and geologic folios, whenever the sum transmitted solely for folios at the wholesale price amounts to at least $5.10; that is, a discount of 40 per cent will be given whenever 34 or more folios that sell singly for 25c., or their equivalent in higher priced folios, are ordered at one time. Address the Director of the Geological Survey, Washington. For topographic sheets see next page.

Topographic sheets

NOTE.—The Geological Survey is making a topographic map of the United States. The sheets of which it is composed are projected without reference to political divisions, and are designated by some prominent town or natural feature found on them. Three scales are used, 1:62,500, 1:125,000, and 1:250,000. These correspond, approximately, to 1 mile, 2 miles, and 4 miles to 1 linear inch on the map. The size, unless otherwise given, is about 17.5 inches in height by 11.5 to 16 inches in width, exclusive of the margin, the width varying with the latitude. A description of the topographic map is printed on the reverse of each sheet.

About one-third of the area of the country, excluding outlying possessions, has been mapped, nearly every State being represented. Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, and the District of Columbia are completely mapped. Sheets of the regular size are sold by the Survey at 5c. each; but in lots of 100 or more copies, whether of the same sheet or of different sheets, the price is 3c. each. In no case can orders be filled at the wholesale rate unless the sum remitted solely for topographic maps amounts to at least $3.00.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

NOTE.—In its latest price-list the Smithsonian Institution publishes this note: "The publications of the Smithsonian Institution are: 1, Contributions to knowledge; 2, Miscellaneous collections; 3, Annual reports; 4, Special publications. No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The volumes of Contributions and of Miscellaneous collections are distributed only to public libraries and to learned institutions and societies in this country and abroad. A small edition of the papers in these two series is printed separately for sale or exchange. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remains to supply demands from other sources. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be had by purchase from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. The papers printed in the annual reports are published separately for free distribution. Publications should be ordered by the serial number. Remittances should be made payable to 'Smithsonian Institution.' An application from a library should state the number of volumes in the library and the date of establishment, and have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.

Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given, octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 60th Congress, 1st session, is to be understood.

Notes of General Interest

In the October list of public documents a very notable example comes from the Law Division of the Library of Congress as volume 1 of the Index analysis of Federal statutes. It is a very minute and extended index to the Revised statutes of 1873, and to the Statutes at large since published, namely, volumes 18–34. It is the first general index to the laws of the United States that has been compiled since Little and Brown's index to volumes 1–8, Statutes at large, published more than 40 years ago. The magnitude and completeness of the new work may be partly estimated from the fact that volume 1 alone fills nearly 1,400 quarto pages, and the whole work will comprise certainly three and perhaps four volumes. Volume 2, which is to index the private, local, and temporary laws, will be at least two years longer in compilation, and no date has been fixed for the publication of that volume or the succeeding volumes. Volume 1 is, however, the only one which the average legal practitioner will require, as it indexes all the general and permanent laws. The last thing in the book is one that will be a great convenience to many people. It is a list of the popular names of certain statutes which are much used and usually known by the names of their authors, with references to the volumes and chapters where they may be found. This volume is published by the Library of Congress and sold by the Superintendent of Documents.

A new volume of the 1905 census of manufactures came from the Census Bureau during the month. It is part 4 and is made up of Special reports on selected industries.

The 1909 List of stars for navigators has been issued by the Nautical Almanac Office.

From the General Land Office came a list of Unappropriated public lands.

That monumental work, the Index-catalogue of library of Surgeon-General's Office, United States Army, has reached the 13th volume of its 2d series, the 1st series having been completed in 16 volumes.

There are new prints of Laws and regulations relating to Hot Springs Reservation and Yellowstone and Yosemite national parks.

Annual reports of Government bureaus for the fiscal year 1907 are beginning to drift in. By next month they should be numerous.

Sailors can now be supplied with the 2d edition of the American nautical almanac for 1909.

In Silvical leaflet 19 the Forest Service has made a distinct contribution to the popular nomenclature of American trees by coining the word "bigtree" for the popular name of Sequoia washingtoniana, the biggest of all big trees, the tree that made California famous.

The Congressional record for the 60th Congress, 1st session, has been issued in its permanent bound form as volume 42 in 8 parts or books and an index volume. Each part is in fact a great quarto volume of about a thousand pages, and the index volume is still larger. The 8 parts sell for $2.25 each and the index for $2.50, making $20.50 for the set of 9 volumes.

Volume 36, Land decisions, is in the October list and now ready for delivery. For the first time a volume in this series is bound in buckram instead of sheep. The price is $1.25.

The Decisions of the Geographic Board on the proper form of place names, made during the two years, July, 1906, to July, 1908, have been published in a 38-page pamphlet.

Bulletin 369 of the United States Geological Survey, Prevention of mine explosions, is the work of three European experts who were invited to this country to make an inspection of the causes which have led to a destruction of human life in American mines far greater than in the mines of any other country.

The Agriculture Department, always a prolific publisher, has a long list of booklets this month. Among them we note especially Primer of conservation, a preliminary manual in the study of what may perhaps be rated the greatest of all our national questions, the conservation of natural resources. It is the first official publication sketching the work of the famous conference of governors held at the White House last May.

WORKS OF JOHN ADAMS

The works of John Adams, in 10 volumes, edited by his grandson, Charles Francis Adams, were published by Little, Brown & Co., Boston, 1856. By act approved September 30, 1850, Congress appropriated $22,500 to buy 1,000 sets. By resolution approved February 27, 1851, the distribution of between 500 and 600 sets was provided for, and it was directed that the remainder be sold. These volumes are not in the numbered series of Congressional documents.

AMERICAN HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION

The American Historical Association was formed at Saratoga September 9, 1884. The "Papers" of the Association, consisting of reports of the proceedings of the annual meetings and some of the historical monographs that had been read before the Association, were published by the Putnams, 1885–91, and have been collected in five substantial volumes, the copyright being held by the Association. These volumes, giving the proceedings and papers of the first seven annual meetings, are not public documents. By act of Congress approved January 4, 1889, the Association was incorporated, the act providing that "said Association shall report annually to the Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution concerning its proceedings and the condition of historical study in America; said Secretary shall communicate to Congress the whole of such reports or such portions thereof as he shall see fit." From that time the proceedings and historical monographs of the Association have been issued by the Government as numbered Senate documents in one or two volumes yearly, under the title "Annual reports of American Historical Association." The first two issues in this form, those for 1889 and 1890, duplicate the proceedings of the 6th and 7th meetings, which had already been published in the "Papers," and also partially duplicate the monographs in volumes 4 and 5 of the "Papers." The issue of the "Papers" was discontinued after the 7th meeting.

ANNALS OF CONGRESS

The Annals of Congress, 42 volumes large 8°, of which two volumes were issued in 1834 and the remainder in 1849–56, give no doubt as faithful a report of the debates and proceedings of the first 17 Congresses and the first session of the 18th Congress as it was possible to compile after such a lapse of time. Congress encouraged the publishers, Gales and Seaton, by an appropriation, March 3, 1851 (31st Cong. 2d sess.), for 2,000 sets, of which it ordered 600 to be distributed to libraries and officials and 1,400 to be deposited in the Department of State, subject to the order of Congress. Apparently Congress never ordered them out of the Department. More than a generation later they were so plentiful there that for some years it was the custom to give a set to each clerk. Up to the time of the Civil War it was also the custom to vote a set to each member of the House of Representatives.

HERNDON AND GIBBON'S EXPLORATION OF THE AMAZON VALLEY

Part 1 (Herndon) was transmitted to Congress February 10, 1853, and on that day ordered printed by the Senate as Senate ex. doc. 36, 32d Cong. 2d sess. At the same session, March 3, 1853, 10,000 additional copies were ordered, the resolution also providing for printing part 2 (Gibbon), should it be submitted before the close of the session. It was so submitted and printed. Part 1 (Herndon) was ordered printed by the House February 12, 1853, as House ex. doc. 43, 32d Cong. 2d sess. January 6, 1854 (33d Cong. 1st sess.), 10,000 additional copies were ordered, including both parts. These extra copies of part 1 were issued as House ex. doc. 43, 32d Cong. 2d sess., and those of part 2 as House ex. doc. 53, 33d Cong. 1st sess. Later in the session, April 13, 1854, the House ordered 20,000 copies more. Both volumes of this edition were designated House ex. doc. 53, 33d Cong. 1st sess. As a consequence of these various printings, cloth volumes of part 1 are found as House ex. doc. 53, 33d Cong. 1st sess., but in the sheep-bound Congressional series the House edition of part 1 is found only as House ex. doc. 43, 32d Cong. 2d sess.

CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE REPORTS

The recommendation that the printed reports of Congressional committees be collected and indexed, made in certain reports by the Committee on Printing in 1884, did not bear fruit till 1887, when the committee reports were compiled and indexed by Thomas Hudson McKee in 513 volumes, 178 of the reports of Senate committees and 335 of the reports of House committees, furnished with 95 indexes, 36 to Senate reports and 59 to House reports, being a distinct index for each standing committee and a combined index in each branch for the select and special committees. The 513 volumes were not issued as a set, but each committee was supplied with a complete collection of its own reports adequately indexed. Capt. McKee published an edition of the 95 indexes, separately from the reports, for sale to libraries and collectors. The collections extended from the date of organization of each committee to the close of the 49th Congress, 1887, in no case, however, beginning at an earlier date than the opening of the 14th Congress, 1815.

The reports of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, 1789–1901, were reprinted in 8 volumes, 1901 (56th Cong. 2d sess., Senate doc. 231, volumes 19–26, serial nos. 4047–54).

CONGRESSIONAL DIRECTORY

Though the Congressional directory does not appear among the numbered Congressional documents till 1881, a manual under that name has been issued from an early period in Congressional history and perhaps from the beginning. The earliest copy in the Public Documents Library is of the 17th Congress (1822). The Directory was compiled and printed as a private venture till 1847, and the names of compilers and printers are many. In the 30th Congress (1848) the Directory assumed an official air by bearing on its title-page the words "Compiled and published for the use of Congress by the postmaster of the House of Representatives." This style was continued till 1865, when by joint resolution, approved February 14, the publication was put under the direction of the Committee on Printing and required to be printed at the Government Printing Office. The early directories are queer little pamphlets, the 17th Congress copy being $3\frac{3}{4}$ by $5\frac{15}{16}$ inches in size and 47 pages thick, contrasting strongly with the 400-page octavo of to-day.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

NOTE.—In its latest price-list the Smithsonian Institution publishes this note: "The publications of the Smithsonian Institution are: 1, Contributions to knowledge; 2, Miscellaneous collections; 3, annual reports; 4, special publications. No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The volumes of Contributions and of Miscellaneous collections are distributed only to public libraries and to learned institutions and societies in this country and abroad. A small edition of the papers in these two series is printed separately for sale or exchange. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remains to supply demands from other sources. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be had by purchase from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. The papers printed in the annual reports are published separately for free distribution. Publications should be ordered by the serial number. Remittances should be made payable to 'Smithsonian Institution.' An application from a library should state the number of volumes in the library and the date of establishment, and have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.

Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given, octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 60th Congress, 1st session, is to be understood.

Notes of General Interest

Upon invitation of Dr. A. C. True, official bibliographer for the Association of American Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations, the Superintendent of Documents met with the Association on Nov. 18, 1908, and read the following paper which was prepared to emphasize the facts of the present wasteful methods of gratuitous distribution, the unfortunate condition of the designated depository list, and the value of centralization in matters of disseminating government literature.

It is gratifying to note that the paper was well received and has brought in numerous inquiries, thus aiding in the purpose of popularizing public documents.

Mr. President and Gentlemen: It is truly indicative of progress that a learned Association such as this should invite remarks on the subject of public documents—a subject which until recently has been shunned by the majority of those who labor in various ways to disseminate knowledge. It is gratifying to note this growing interest, as it will certainly prove erroneous the preconceived notions regarding the dryness and uselessness of the literature which Uncle Sam prepares and distributes, and when all unwarranted prejudice is superseded by an understanding of the true value of Government publications, the documents will be more widely used, and will be considered a valuable asset in a library, instead of the burden that they are, to many, at present.

Every year Government publications increase in number, volume, and usefulness. Bureaus which a few years ago were not known outside the Department to which they are attached, have by judicious publishing brought themselves to the notice of the public, and exerted an influence over the thought of the age along the lines of their specialties. In this regard no Department has developed more rapidly than has the Department of Agriculture. In 1896 the total number of publications issued was 427; with 6,561,700 copies as a total; whereas eleven years later, in 1907, the aggregate number of publications was 1,415, in editions totaling 16,746,910; and you are doubtless aware that the Experiment Stations Office in 1896 contributed 74 publications with a total of 1,136,850 copies, and in 1907, 283 publications and 2,404,400 copies to these totals.

You are, as a body, principally interested in agricultural subjects, but the publications of the Agriculture Department are so familiar to you that I am not going to allude to them further than to show that they represent the bulk of the books we sell and distribute.

I feel sure you are desirous of knowing what means and methods the Government is adopting to aid you in your great educational work, and shall therefore tell you of some of the difficulties which oppose the popularizing of these documents, and of the history and work of the office which has to do with supplying the Government publications free to libraries and schools, and by sale to individuals—the Documents Office, or the Public Documents Division of the Government Printing Office.

For many years prior to 1895, the distributing of Government books to libraries was accomplished through the Public Documents Division of the Department of the Interior, but the handling of the publications of one of the Executive Departments by another Department never worked harmoniously, and it was finally decided to transfer the work to a new bureau under the jurisdiction of the Public Printer. Accordingly an elaborate plan for the establishment and maintenance of the office of the Superintendent of Documents was drawn up for insertion in a printing law then before Congress, a plan which, had it been enacted, would have fulfilled the hopes of document experts and established the methods of distribution on a firm basis for future development along economical lines. But alas! this very essential portion of the bill was placed upon the altar of sacrifice to the great legislative god Compromise, and in its final form was almost unrecognizable to its framers and promoters, and presents as illogical an enactment as was ever placed upon the statute books.

It was the original purpose to establish, convenient to the Government Printing Office, a central distributing agency for all public documents, in order to avoid extra handling of the vast number of publications annually issued therefrom. In this office were to be consolidated the many distributing agencies, thus making it possible to detect and prevent duplication in shipments, and, if properly equipped, provide an easy means of compiling records for use in obtaining needed legislation in the future. So it was proposed that this new officer, the Superintendent of Documents, should have general supervision of all Government publications, and that to his custody should be consigned all documents printed for distribution. But as a result of the conciliatory amendments, those publications printed for use of Congress, the Executive Departments, and the independent publishing offices, were excepted from the operation of this provision, virtually leaving the Superintendent of Documents in control of the distribution of only such publications as he himself should issue, and those which by law were intended for depository libraries. But centralization in distribution must come, and with it will be solved the great questions which are now so vexed and difficult of solution.

At present the Superintendent of Documents distributes the books furnished by law for the use of one library in each Congressional district, to be chosen by the Representative from that district, and one library in any part of a State or Territory to be named by each Senator, Delegate, or Congressman at Large, which libraries are known as "designated depositories." There are also lists composed of four libraries similarly designated in each district, to which the current issues of the publications of the Geological Survey are forwarded, and of eight libraries in each district named as recipients of the weekly issues of the Official gazette of the Patent Office.

To those libraries constituted designated depositories we ship periodically one copy of each and every public document printed, except those considered confidential or strictly official in character. It is easily seen that this privilege is a valuable one to a library which can afford to take care of the books sent, but a burden to one unequipped for the work. It is in the proper selection of these libraries for the placing of collections of Government publications that I am anxious to interest this Association. We have on our lists now some 487 such libraries, out of a possible 615, and I doubt if the full number will ever be designated, as it is a question whether there are that number, among the nine thousand libraries in the country, able or willing to assume the responsibilities of depositories. In the course of a year each designated depository library receives on an average from 900 to 1,000 books and pamphlets, which will occupy in bulk at least fifty feet of shelf space. It is no small problem properly to classify and make available such a quantity of material, covering subjects ranging from agriculture to astronomy, and treating of them in bulletins, circulars, monographs, and reports of the most technical nature.

At a recent session of Congress, regardless of strenuous opposition and the exhibiting of the baneful results of such an action, a law was passed constituting all of your land grant colleges designated depositories. Of the 67 libraries notified of the conferring of this great privilege, 15 declined to accept the honor, and 2 have since requested to be dropped from the list, finding no use for the major part of the material forwarded. I have no doubt that many of the others are alike desirous of discontinuing the books periodically sent, as they are not permitted to select that class of literature which would be of service to them. The theory of depositories involves the placing conveniently throughout the country complete sets of Government publications for the use of the people; but even after many years of annual expenditures of over $100,000, the designated library, as the depository of a complete file of Government publications, is but a theory still.

No greater good could be wrought in library economy in the various States, than a movement looking to the proper location of these depositories, and the obtaining of legislation making them permanent, instead of leaving them subject to change at the whims of Members of Congress. If permanently designated after careful selection, valuable and useful collections could be built up, where now are scattered, unclassified, and unused sets.

Another problem which presents itself for solution, and which is second only to that of the proper location and privileges to be granted to the depositories, is whether gratuitous distribution or sale is most advisable in distributing public documents. Perhaps it is too radical to suggest the total abolition of the practice of gratuitous distribution, but I would almost prefer to run the risk of doing an injustice to a few earnest collaborators rather than continue to encumber unoffending libraries or waste valuable printed matter on unappreciative constituents.

It has been demonstrated by practical experience in the past few years that the restriction of the free distribution to libraries, institutions of learning, and collaborators, does not lessen the interest of the public in the publications, but increases it. I would advocate selling all books at a nominal figure, just enough to cover the cost of production and distribution, which under correct conditions should be comparatively small. With careful advertising and keeping customers informed of new publications, not only a more logical but a less expensive distribution would result.

Print all the useful matter you can compile for the benefit of the farmer; take pains to notify him of its publication; provide him with an inexpensive and easy means of remitting for the purchase of the books desired; centralize the now numerous agencies from which publications and information are obtained, and ways and means will have been provided for reaching more who would be actually benefited than can ever be reached through the free and fitful methods now in vogue.

In 1896 our office sold 21,363 Government publications; in 1906, 74,806, while the annual report for 1908 will exhibit 211,897 copies disposed of. Of the latter figure 94,626 copies were Agriculture Department publications, nearly as many as the entire sales for 1896 and 1906 combined. It is our desire and aim to popularize public documents, and their increased sale is largely due to our efforts to make them known. The general routine of Government official life gives little time or opportunity for the application of those "follow up" and custom catching methods found so profitable in the business world, but the Documents Office has only two purposes in life, namely: to collect and catalogue the publications as issued, and to make them known and supply them to those who may desire to obtain them.

In fulfilling the first part of our mission we have collected the most complete file of U. S. Government publications in the world, a collection which is used as the basis for all our cataloguing and reference work. We compile a Monthly catalogue, which lists all current issues of the month covered; a complete Index to the numbered publications of Congress, which is issued at the close of each regular session of Congress; and the great Document catalogues which appear every two years, and contain the permanent record of everything published during that period. These catalogues are free to libraries, but it is an astounding fact that out of an edition of 2,500 copies of the Monthly catalogue, only 1,128 are distributed, though the publication has been offered free by sending sample copies to every library in the country.

But what is the use of writing books, publishing, or cataloguing them, unless you make them known and available to the people? Had this question been asked and answered years ago, the congestion of three million publications, two-thirds of which were either superseded by later editions or rendered obsolete by age, would never have embarrassed a Superintendent of Documents. But the making of books, of which there truly is no end, continues; the size of editions once established remains the same; and without knowledge where best to place the copies published, the publishers retain them undisturbed. What a shameful waste of energy, time, and money.

We have done our best to assort the vast accumulation now on hand; have made known through the medium of a Free list those which were available for library distribution; have put into our stock over a million good and useful books; obtained permission to dispose of a greater portion of the remainder by sale as waste paper, and procured legislation permitting the printing of allotments in editions as needed, to prevent overprinting and a repetition of this wasteful accumulation.

We are printing and circulating price lists and leaflets to your libraries, to our customers, and to specially selected lists of names, in the hope of disposing of our great store of older publications, as well as those of current interest. We are advertising in magazines and daily papers, and displaying in the post offices throughout the country a neat list of important publications available by purchase, a list entitled in large letters "Government documents for the people." We are sending this also to your schools and libraries, and asking you to give it prominence and bring its contents to the attention of your students.

Our refereuce force is answering hundreds of letters a day, giving references to particular subjects, and informing persons who apply how to obtain the desired publications by sale, or where they can consult them in a nearby library.

Careful consideration is given every customer to locate him on the list which will insure his receiving notice of future publications in which he might be interested, and this is all done because we are anxious to circulate, instead of accumulate, public documents.

We want all the libraries, colleges, and schools to understand that we stand ready to assist them in procuring either the information contained or the public document itself; that our services to them are entirely free and willingly bestowed, as are also the books when in stock; and that their interest in our methods and their friendly coöperation are what we need in order to continue to develop our plan of a clearing house for Government publications and a bureau of information regarding their contents.

I cordially invite you all to visit us in our new and commodious quarters in the Annex Building, adjoining the Government Printing Office; and solicit your patronage in the future for growing reciprocal benefits in another broad field of educational extension and experiment.

The new numbered series of statistical reports on the consumption of American wood, issued by the Census Bureau in coöperation with the Forest Service and called "Forest products," is making rapid progress. The numbers issued during November were: 2, Lumber cut of United States; 3, Production of slack cooperage stock; 4, Consumption of tanbark and tanning extracts; 5, Wood consumed in veneer manufacture. The statistics are all for the year 1907.

Volume 14, Decisions of Comptroller of Treasury, July 1, 1907–June 30, 1908, has been issued; also v. 17, Pension decisions, carrying a topical index to v. 9–17.

The Education Bureau's Bulletin 4, series of 1908, is entirely devoted to the interesting subject of Music education in United States. The conclusions of the author, Prof. Arthur L. Manchester, are thus stated (in part): "It is clear that the present status of formal music education is one of transition . . . there is still lacking the unity and complete coördination of effort that should characterize a well-grounded scheme of education."

Circular 137 of the Animal Industry Bureau is a reprint from the Bureau's annual report for 1907 and is entitled "Preservation of our native types of horses." It is likely to be widely circulated and to make many interested persons acquainted with the fact that the United States Agriculture Department is carrying on several horse-breeding establishments, and trying to perpetuate, before it shall be too late, the famous breeds of American horses, and especially the Morgan horse. The pamphlet has numerous horse portraits.

The Proceedings of 24th annual convention of Association of Official Agricultural Chemists, Jamestown Exposition, Norfolk, Va., Oct. 9–11, 1907, are just published. These Proceedings interest a large constituency.

Dr. Howard, the entomologist of the Agriculture Department, has published his annual report for 1908. The most of those who read it will, we think, be amazed at the view it gives of the magnitude of the war waged by the Government against insect pests, and only a dull reader can fail to be interested in the history of it.

One of the shadows which the coming event casts before is the Unofficial list of members-elect of House of Representatives and their places of residence, 61st Congress, just issued by the clerk of the present House.

Field operations of Bureau of Soils, 1906, being the 8th annual report in this series, is now published in collected form, having been previously published in 38 separate pamphlets. An atlas will follow.

Hinds' precedents of the House of Representatives, including references to provisions of the Constitution, laws, and decisions of the Senate, by Asher C. Hinds, clerk at the Speaker's table, is a ponderous and monumental work, to be completed in 8 v., of which 4 have thus far been published. It is a spacious quarto, and v. 1–4 average more than 1100 pages each. Five of the volumes will contain the vast collection of precedents, and 3 will be filled with a copious digest and index, or index-digest as the author prefers to call it, making the whole mass of material easily accessible. In 1898 Mr. Hinds compiled the original volume of Hinds' Parliamentary precedents—a quarto of nearly 1200 pages, which, large as it was, was only the nucleus from which the greater work has grown. Upon this greater work he has been engaged ever since. Nothing needs to be said of the desirability of such a work. Parliamentary law is built upon precedent, and though Mr. Hinds has been able to carry a large part of his eight big volumes in his head, it is not to be expected that other people will be able to do so. Those who have their heads full of other things, and still wish to know American parliamentary law as it has been developed through 120 years' practice in the House of Representatives, must have this book, which in all probability will remain the standard authority for many years to come. The author is a Maine newspaper man, who came to Washington with the late Speaker Reed and has been the right hand of every succeeding Speaker. His qualifications for the authorship of a compilation of the precedents of the House are beyond dispute. The work is House document 355, in v. 79–85, pt. 2, of the 59th Congress, 2d session.

The Annual report of commissioner of patents, 1907, is out. As all who are interested know, the report has attached an annual index of inventions and patentees. This index may be expected to be in unusual demand from the fact that the volume indexes to the Official gazette of the Patent Office theretofore issued were not published for the year 1907.

Library sort of people will be interested in the annual report for 1908 of Mr. W. Dawson Johnston, librarian of the Bureau of Education, which is issued this month. It shows that progress has been made and that greater progress is planned.

The Apprenticeship system in its relation to industrial education, by Carroll D. Wright, is a study of more economic importance at the present time than it could ever have been before, because of the increasing disposition of employers to require trained assistants and to consider the best means of getting them. It is published by the Education Bureau as Bulletin 6, series of 1908.

The dissemination of knowledge as to the promotion and preservation of the health of human kind continues to occupy a large share of the time and thought of scientific investigators and of the people at large. We have this month several Government publications in this department of inquiry. One is a report of the Transactions of 6th annual Conference of State and Territorial Health Officers with Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service. Another is a Preliminary study of effects of cold storage on eggs, quail, and chickens, by H. W. Wiley and others. A third is a circular on Foot-and-mouth disease, a malady so contagious that its recent outbreak among the domestic animals of Pennsylvania, New York, Michigan, and Maryland has alarmed the country.

The annual reports of surgeon-generals of Army and Navy are among the November publications. Each one reports an improved health-rate in the branch of the service under his charge.

The Interstate Commerce Commission's Accident bulletin 28, showing collisions and derailments of trains and casualties to persons, Apr.–June, 1908, with tables for year ending June 30, 1908, is a ghastly record. The killed for the quarter number 591 and the injured 13,098. For the year the totals are: Killed, 3,764; injured, 68,989. And these reports deal only with employees on duty and passengers. "Other persons" get killed and injured plentifully, but they are not counted in the Accident bulletin, though they are in the Annual report of the Commission. Bad though the 1908 accident record is, it is much better than in preceding years, so far as fatalities to passengers by train accidents are concerned. Evidently the laws requiring the use of safety appliances are doing good.

An important advance "separate" from Mineral resources of United States, calendar year 1907, is the Summary of mineral production for that year. Despite the commercial depression, it was the banner year for mineral production, the aggregate values exceeding two thousand million dollars. Coal remains the most valuable mineral product, the year's production amounting to $614,798,898, while iron amounted to $529,958,000, and gold to only $90,435,700. It is an open question whether to rejoice or mourn over the increased mineral production. It is not well to forget that coal and iron ore are exhaustible and that when exhausted they cannot be replaced.

REPORTS OF THE LIBRARIAN OF CONGRESS

The Library of Congress can supply copies of its reports, 1869–96, and also a few copies of its printed catalogs. If your library does not have a complete set, please send a list of the numbers needed to the Librarian of Congress.

RECENT INDEXES TO THE LAWS

Since the issue of the Scott-Beaman Index analysis of Federal statutes inquiry has sprung up as to whether it is the index which was authorized by Senate resolution adopted June 19, 1902, and, if not, what are the differences between the two.

The resolution of 1902 directed the Judiciary Committee of the Senate to "cause to be prepared" a consolidated index of the United States statutes Mar. 4, 1789–Mar. 3, 1903. The work was done under the supervision of the late Senator Hoar of Massachusetts, then chairman of the Judiciary Committee. From 4 to 7 persons were employed upon it for about 3 years. They did not make an original index, but consolidated the volume indexes in the volumes of the Statutes at large. When completed it made 4 v. of over 1100 pages each. It was published in 1906, but the edition was limited to 25 copies, for the use of the Judiciary Committee. These were distributed as follows: 13 sets to the 13 members of the Senate Judiciary Committee; 1 set to the Committee as a body; 1 to the Senate library; 1 to the Senate document room; 1 to the Secretary of the Senate; 1 to the Senate Chamber; 1 to the Senate Committee on the District of Columbia; 1 to the Senate Committee on Appropriations; 1 to the House Committee on Appropriations; 1 to the House Committee on the Judiciary; 1 to the Clerk of the House; 1 to the Attorney-General; 1 to the Secretary of State—25 in all. No appropriation has been granted for printing additional copies, and none has been printed. It will be seen, therefore, that this index is not obtainable.

The Scott-Beaman Index analysis, issued under direction of the Librarian of Congress, is an original index classified by subjects. Volume 1, the only one thus far issued, indexes the Revised statutes of 1873 and the general and permanent laws found in the Statutes at large, 1873–1907. Volume 2, which will index the private, local, and temporary laws, will not be issued until at least two years hence. It is thought there may be 3 or 4 v. in all.

AN ERROR OF THE PRESS

In the "up-number" part of the edition of House document 326, 59th Congress, 2d session, that is, the part sent up to the Capitol in paper covers for the immediate use of Senators and Representatives, an unfortunate error occurred. It is in page 9, where the last line of the 3d paragraph reads:

"zens. (The American passport, p. 77.)"

The correct version is:

"been a citizen for nine years. (Art. 1, sec. 3.)"

The document is the important Report on citizenship, expatriation, and protection abroad, made by a commission of which James B. Scott, David J. Hill, and Gaillard Hunt were the members. As the error made nonsense of an important citation, its discovery in time to make the correction in the reserve edition which goes to the libraries for permanent preservation is fortunate.

NOTABLE REPORTS AND ADDRESSES

Topographic sheets

NOTE.—The Geological Survey is making a topographic map of the United States. The sheets of which it is composed are projected without reference to political divisions, and are designated by some prominent town or natural feature found on them. Three scales are used, 1:62,500, 1:125,000, and 1:250,000. These correspond, approximately, to 1 mile, 2 miles, and 4 miles to 1 linear inch on the map. The size, unless otherwise given, is about 17.5 inches in height by 11.5 to 16 inches in width, exclusive of the margin, the width varying with the latitude. A description of the topographic map is printed on the reverse of each sheet.

About one-third of the area of the country, excluding outlying possessions, has been mapped, nearly every State being represented. Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, and the District of Columbia are completely mapped. Sheets of the regular size are sold by the Survey at 5c. each; but in lots of 100 or more copies, whether of the same sheet or of different sheets, the price is 3c. each. In no case can orders be filled at the wholesale rate unless the sum remitted solely for topographic maps amounts to at least $3.00.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

NOTE.—In its latest price-list the Smithsonian Institution publishes this note: "The publications of the Smithsonian Institution are: 1, Contributions to knowledge; 2, Miscellaneous collections; 3, Annual reports; 4, Special publications. No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The volumes of Contributions and of Miscellaneous collections are distributed only to public libraries and to learned institutions and societies in this country and abroad. A small edition of the papers in these two series is printed separately for sale or exchange. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remains to supply demands from other sources. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be had by purchase from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. The papers printed in the annual reports are published separately for free distribution. Publications should be ordered by the serial number. Remittances should be made payable to 'Smithsonian Institution.' An application from a library should state the number of volumes in the library and the date of establishment, and have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.

NATIONAL MUSEUM

NOTE.—The publications of the National Museum comprises bulletins, annual reports, and an annual volume of Proceedings. The annual report is included in the Congressional set. Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given, octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 60th Congress, 2d session, is to be understood.

Notes of General Interest

It sometimes happens that when a public document is issued in 2 parts the 2d part appears before the 1st. This is the case with the special report of the Census Bureau on Marriage and divorce, 1867–1906. This part contains the statistical tables for the 40-year period from which the startling, and even shocking, advance newspaper notices of the amazing prevalence of divorce in this country were derived. The statistics have been collected directly from the records at the county-seats throughout the country, all of which were visited by agents of the Census Bureau. Part 1 will discuss the character and significance of the statistics.

A new edition of Farmers' bulletin 137, devoted to publicity for that popular naturalized citizen, the Angora goat, is among the month's offerings.

Conventions with foreign countries have been ratified and made public since the latest former issue of the monthly catalogue as follows: Arbitration, China, Peru, and Portugal; Naturalization, Brazil, Honduras, Portugal, and Uruguay; Parcel-post, Austria. Also the important convention between the United States and 39 other powers for the establishment of a permanent International Institute of Agriculture, the seat of which is in Rome, has been printed in French and English.

Magnesite deposits in California are the subject of a new bulletin of the Geological Survey, no. 355.

Among the most useful publications of the Government bureaus are those giving complete and authoritative lists of their own publications. The latest issue of this kind is from the Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service, whose publications, always important, have now become numerous.

Hydrographic Office Publication 100 gives all available nautical information concerning the Gulf and River St. Lawrence and H. O. Publication 102 does the same service for the North Atlantic islands and the African coast. A 3d edition has just been issued of 100 and a 4th edition of 102.

The pamphlet edition of President Roosevelt's last annual message has as an appendix 9 full-page photographic plates illustrating the baleful effects of forest denudation and soil erosion in China.

This is the day of indexes. A useful new one is Circular 17, Plant Industry Bureau, which indexes all the papers relating to plant industry that have been printed in the 14 numbers of the Yearbook of Department of Agriculture.

The Annual report of commissioner of patents, 1906, is only now issued in its permanent bound form. The report is merely a few pages, but the annual index to the Official gazette which follows it and is bound up with it is a massive publication of 1197 pages.

Volume 26, Official opinions of Attorneys-General, is a December publication.

The new List of wireless-telegraph stations seems like a marvel. The invention is but an affair of yesterday, and already its stations belt the world. The list, which is issued by the Equipment Bureau, Navy Department, gives all available information about the stations, their location, call-numbers, character of service, etc.

Plant Industry Bulletin 132 is Inventory 13 of Seeds and plants imported from foreign countries for experimental purposes by the Agriculture Department, July, 1906–Dec. 1907. The mere list of the importations fills 192 pages.

The annual report of the Agriculture Department's Publications Division shows that during the fiscal year 1908 the Department issued nearly 17,000,000 copies of its publications.

The Report of commissioner of fisheries, 1908, has a strong passage on the necessity for the conservation of fishery resources and the indifference of many of the State legislatures to this important subject.

Three new national forests have been created—in North Dakota the Dakota forest, and in Florida the Choctawhatchee and Ocala forests.

One of the most important and interesting of all the Government's annual reports is that of the Experiment Stations Office on the agricultural experiment stations throughout the country, each State and Territory having at least one and some of them several. The amount of good these stations are doing in promoting scientific agriculture is incalculable, but some insight into it may be gained by reading this report.

Few subjects should be of more interest to good American citizens than the welfare and advancement of the millions of people in our noncontiguous possessions. One way to show this interest is to read the Report of chief of Bureau of Insular Affairs.

Small arms firing regulations, edition of 1908, is now available for distribution.

Hygienic Laboratory Bulletin 46 is the life history of Hepatozoon perniciosum, an ultramicroscopic beast of prey which should be encouraged because of the havoc it works with the health of rats.

Farmers' bulletin 339, a December issue, tells the story of Alfalfa, that wonderful forage plant which has played a great part in promoting the prosperity of agriculture in the western half of the country.

Biological Survey Circular 67, issued Dec. 9, 1908, is a very complete exposition of the attitude of the courts toward the restrictive game laws which have been enacted by the United States and by nearly or quite all of the States.

Chemistry Bureau Bulletin 84, pt. 5, issued Dec. 23, 1908, reports Dr. Wiley's investigation of the use of formaldehyde as a food preservative. His final conclusion is sufficiently positive to leave no reader in doubt as to his meaning. It is "that the addition of formaldehyde to foods tends to derange metabolism, disturb the normal functions, and produce irritation and undue stimulation of the secretory activities, and therefore it is never justifiable."

Annual reports are rather numerous in the December catalogue. Each one of them has its own special public, and some of them interest the general public also.

Two very notable additions to the long and astonishingly comprehensive series of published addresses by President Roosevelt are his speeches at the unveiling of the Sheridan statue and at the opening of the St. Gaudens exhibition in the Corcoran Art Gallery.

Three new notes by Dr. W. R. Brinckerhoff, director of the Leprosy Investigation Station at Molokai, Hawaii, in pursuance of the leprosy investigations authorized by the act of Mar. 3, 1905, are published in one pamphlet by the Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service.

A new annotated edition of the patent laws is announced.

There is a new print from the General Land Office of Statutes and regulations governing entries and proof under desert land laws, with suggestions to persons desiring to make entries under said laws.

International arbitration is the subject of the latest bibliographical list from the Library of Congress. The references are very numerous and fill 151 pages. This notice is printed on the cover: "For sale by the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office." This will doubtless save the Library the trouble and expense of writing many letters of explanation. Perhaps some other publishing offices will take the hint thus given.

Part 6 of the Annual List of merchant vessels, 1908, containing the official numbers and signal letters of all seagoing vessels of the United States, has just been issued.

The 1908 Report of the Isthmian Canal Commission is a most elaborate and comprehensive document, embracing 358 pages of text, a large-scale map of the Canal Zone, and 194 plates. The Superintendent of Documents has a few copies for sale, in paper covers, at $1.50 a copy.

The International Waterways Commission has issued a 4th Progress report, Dec. 1, 1908.

A quaint and interesting manual just issued by the Quartermaster's Department, U. S. A., is Pack transportation, by Chief Packer Henry W. Daly, who is said to be the last of the old-time packers.

EARLY FRENCH DISCOVERIES IN THE NORTHWEST AND ON THE MISSISSIPPI

By act approved Mar. 3, 1873 (42d Cong. 3d sess., Stat. L. v. 17, p. 513), appropriation was made "To enable the Joint Committee on the Library to purchase and print a series of unpublished historical documents relating to the early French discoveries in the Northwest and on the Mississippi, ten thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, the printing of the same to be under the direction of said committee." The Library Committee never published a report concerning the work which it was thus authorized to issue, but it is identified by references in the annual reports of the Librarian of Congress for 1874–77, 1881, and 1882. The reference in the report for 1875 (44th Cong. 1st sess., S. mis. doc. 31) follows: "The publication of the large and valuable selection of original French documents relating to the discoveries and explorations made in the northwestern portion of the United States and on the Mississippi, under the auspices of the French Government, from 1614 to 1752, was authorized by act of Congress of Mar. 3, 1873, under the direction of the Joint Committee on the Library. After some delays, the printing of these documents was commenced a few months since under the superintendence of Mr. Pierre Margry, a highly competent historical writer and archiviste of the department of the navy at Paris. The collection will form 6 octavo volumes, of about 600 pages each, and will embrace a great mass of hitherto unpublished papers, comprising letters and journals of early missionaries and other explorers, the first 3 volumes being devoted to the discoveries of Cavelier de La Salle and his companions. These documents, the first volume of which is nearly ready," etc. In his Report for 1876 (44th Cong. 2d sess., S. mis. doc. 27) the Librarian says that "the whole work will be embraced in 6 octavo volumes, with an atlas of maps in quarto. . . . The edition of these historical volumes being small, only 500 copies, it is recommended that, instead of a gratuitous distribution, the Librarian be authorized to exchange copies of the work with historical societies and other libraries for any books deemed equivalent in value." A letter from the Librarian of Congress, Apr. 15, 1901, states, "Mons. Margry died pending the completion of the atlas, and no atlas was issued in connection with the governmental edition. Dr. Spofford informs me that later one did appear in Paris in connection with a commercial edition." The work was printed in Paris, entirely in French, and there is nothing on it or in it to indicate that any branch of the Government of the United States was in any way engaged in its publication.

The following description of the work is reprinted from a circular issued by the Library of Congress:

Découvertes et établissements des Français dans l'ouest et dans le sud de l'Amérique Septentrionale (1614–1754) Mémoires et documents originaux recueillis et publiés par P. Margry . . . Paris, D. Jouaust, 1876–86.

6 v. front. (port.) 8°.

The general title as above appears only on the covers and as half-title. The regular title-pages present the special titles of the separate volumes as given in contents below. The fine paper edition, 1879–88, with special introductions and extra maps, has cover (and half) title "Mémoires et documents pour servir à l'histoire des origines françaises d'outre mer" [etc.]

Contents.—t. 1. Première partie. Voyages des Français sur les Grands lacs et découverte de l'Ohio et du Mississipi (1614–1684)—t. 2. Deuxième partie. Lettres de Cavelier de La Salle et correspondance relative à ses entreprises (1678–1685)—t. 3. Troisième partie. Recherche des bouches du Mississipi et voyage à travers le continent depuis les côtes du Texas jusqu'a Québec (1669–1698)—t. 4. Quatrième partie. Découverte par mer des bouches du Mississipi et établissements de Lemoyne d'Iberville sur le golfe du Mexique (1694–1703)—t. 5. Cinquième partie. Première formation d'une chaîne de postes entre le fleuve Saint-Laurent et le golfe du Mexique (1683–1724)—t. 6. Sixième partie. Exploration des affluents du Mississipi et découverte des montagnes Rocheuses (1679–1754)

The Library of Congress has duplicate copies of the work mentioned above, available for exchange with other libraries. This is offered on the "priced exchange" at a valuation of $20 for the set.

MURCHISON'S DIGEST

Three appropriations were made for the compilation and publication of Digest of decisions relating to Indian affairs, by Kenneth S. Murchison—June 10, 1896, $3,000, June 7, 1897, $2,000, and May 31, 1900, $5,000. Volume 1, Judicial, was issued in a bureau edition, 1901, and in a Congressional document edition, 1903 (56th Cong. 2d sess., H. doc. 538, in v. 116, serial no. 4190). Volume 2 has not been issued, the Government Printing Office never having received the manuscript therefor. There is no present prospect that it will be issued. The serial number 4191 must therefore remain a blank in the "sheep set," and also the volume number 117 in the House documents, 56th Congress, 2d session. Mr. Murchison has not been in the Government service for several years and is reported to be in Oklahoma. The records of the Indian Affairs Office show that the amount of the first two appropriations, $5,000, was paid to him, and that of the third appropriation, $5,000, there was paid to the Government Printing Office $3,173.80 for printing v. 1, and the balance, $1,826.20 returned to the Treasury.

CHANGE IN DOCUMENT NUMBERING

Heretofore, while committee reports in both houses have been numbered for the whole Congress, no matter how many sessions may have been held, the Senate and House documents have begun a new set of numbers with each session, having thus at least two series for each Congress, frequently three series, and occasionally a fourth series issued by the Senate at a special session. By operation of law (34 Stat. L. 1014), this duplication of document numbers and volume numbers in the same Congress has now been done away with. In the 60th Congress the documents as well as the reports are numbered through the Congress, and the same rule has been followed by the State Department in issuing the separate or slip prints of the public and private laws and resolutions.

The first Senate document issued for the 60th Congress, 2d session, is numbered 538, the first House document is 988, the first public law 178, and the first public joint resolution 33. Under the old plan each of these would have been numbered 1. No private laws or resolutions for the current session have yet been published.

POPULARIZING PUBLIC DOCUMENTS

In a column headed "Library notes" in the issue for Nov. 26, 1908, of the Clarkston Republic, of Clarkston, Wash., appears the following businesslike notice, which is commended, and like notices by librarians in their local papers are recommended:

The librarian wishes to call attention to a list of "Government documents for the people" which is posted in the library. Few publications are in greater demand or of more practical benefit to the people than these issued by the National Government which has thousands of scientists in its employ who are working to detect adulterations in foods or in seeds or in medicines; or to learn how to destroy or restrict the insect pests which injure vegetation; or the cheapest and best ways to improve the public roads; or how to detect and prevent disease; these and many more methods of adding to the national wealth and prosperity are diligently sought and studied by the Government's army of trained scientists. The result of the work of the scientists are published in books and pamphlets which are sold at the mere cost of publication.

Five, 10, or 25 cents will bring a valuable paper on "Fruits," "Tar and oil for road improvement," "Louisiana Purchase," "Apple worm," "Lime, sulphur, salt wash," "San Jose scale," and hundreds of other subjects.

When a demand for any of these publications is created the library will endeavor to supply them.

"Government documents for the people," otherwise Bulletin 13, Documents Office, is a pamphlet of 32 pages printed poster fashion for exhibition in public places. It has been sent to every postmaster in the United States, to thousands of secondary and normal schools, to the depository libraries and many other libraries, and to numerous individuals who have asked for it. Six of its pages are used up by "A little talk," in big type but not in big words, about the work of the Documents Office. The remainder of the space is taken up by "A select list" of about 350 titles of public documents covering an extensive variety of subjects and selected for their popular quality. Bulletin 13 has proved to be the most effective advertising matter yet put out by the Documents Office. Copies may be obtained by application to the Superintendent of Documents.

THE DAY OF THE DOCUMENT

We reprint in full an article by Ethel Dane Roberts entitled "The day of the document," which appeared in the Dec. 1908, issue of Public libraries, p. 408:

The committee to investigate the use of government documents in spite of the imposing length of its title, started upon its mission a little dubiously; it returned in rare good humor. Enthusiasm in any field is a pleasant sight, but in the stubble-field of public documents it acquires quite a new value. Time was when the public document was a scorn and a derision, but the new thought, assisted by good indexes, is rapidly changing that attitude, and in centers of library civilization the once derided volume is now referred to, albeit a bit patronizingly, as a "useful tool."

There is one library the committee to investigate, etc., wots of, where it has really come into its own. "Public documents? Do we use them much? Do we? Why we use them all the time. They are the best things for reference work we have; and now they are sending us the unbound pamphlets as they come out, so we have material right up to date. Why, we can find anything in them, and lots of things we can't find anywhere else."

Now, this was a refreshing thing for the committee to hear on the last day of its occasionally tiresome investigations. It inspected with interest the piles of current pamphlets which lay within easy reach of the reference librarian's hand, some in pamphlet boxes labeled "Forestry," "Education," etc. "But," the enthusiast went on, patting the piled up sheets affectionately, "mostly we just look through them for what we want; it keeps us familiar with what is in them. Then we keep an index of our own, besides the official indexes, where we jot down notes on material under different heads. Only the other day a man came in who was on the eve of going to join a brother in a little-known part of Alaska. He wanted to find out all he could about the place in a hurry. In two minutes I found in my index a report on that very place which I had noted because of some good material in it about the use of dogs in Alaska. In five minutes to his unbounded surprise and undisguised admiration, he had a full detailed account of the place with excellent illustrations—the report of a scientific expedition and the only account of that region published. You never saw a more delighted individual. That sort of thing is happening all the time. And this pamphlet material is just a boon—absolutely up to date on all sorts of things of immediate interest." And so on. The committee to investigate the use of Government documents felt its mission had not been in vain, and feels it due to the profession that this part of its report should reach as many as possible.

INDEX TO NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST

The cumulative index to this number of the Monthly catalogue includes index entries for the Notes of general interest, July–Dec. 1908, and in future the "Notes" will be indexed in the Monthly catalogue as issued from month to month. There is no index to the "Notes" for the year from July, 1907, to June, 1908.

EARLIER DISTRIBUTION TO DEPOSITORY LIBRARIES

Beginning with the new year, this Office will send to the libraries, by unregistered mail, immediately on receipt from the Government Printing Office, all publications of current interest whose usefulness would be impaired by delay in sending. These publications will be invoiced later on in the regular Depository invoices, so that libraries may know what they should have received. The early sending of unbound Congressional publications will of course be also continued.

NOTABLE REPORTS AND ADDRESSES

A list, continued from the November Monthly catalogue, of a few of the notable reports and addresses that have been made to Congress, showing where they may be found in the "sheep set":

Lafayette, Marie Paul Roch Yves Gilbert Motier, Marquis de.

NOTE.—The publications of the United States Geological Survey consist of annual reports (restricted to one volume each, beginning with report for 1902), bulletins, Mineral resources, Professional papers, and Water-supply papers, formerly Water-supply and irrigation papers; and maps, Monographs, and folios of the Geologic atlas and the Topographic atlas of the United States, which are sold at prices ranging from 5c. to $11.00 each. A wholesale rate has been established for topographic and geologic folios, whenever the sum transmitted solely for folios at the wholesale price amounts to at least $5.10; that is, a discount of 40 per cent will be given whenever 34 or more folios that sell singly for 25c., or their equivalent in higher priced folios, are ordered at one time. Address the Director of the Geological Survey, Washington. For topographic sheets see page 253.

Topographic sheets

NOTE.—The Geological Survey is making a topographic map of the United States. The sheets of which it is composed are projected without reference to political divisions, and are designated by some prominent town or natural feature found on them. Three scales are used, 1:62,500, 1:125,000, and 1:250,000. These correspond, approximately, to 1 mile, 2 miles, and 4 miles to 1 linear inch on the map. The size, unless otherwise given, is about 17.5 inches in height by 11.5 to 16 inches in width, exclusive of the margin, the width varying with the latitude. A description of the topographic map is printed on the reverse of each sheet.

About one-third of the area of the country, excluding outlying possessions, has been mapped, nearly every State being represented. Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, and the District of Columbia are completely mapped. Sheets of the regular size are sold by the Survey at 5c. each; but in lots of 100 or more copies, whether of the same sheet or of different sheets, the price is 3c. each. In no case can orders be filled at the wholesale rate unless the sum remitted solely for topographic maps amounts to at least $3.00.

Louisiana, Baton Rouge quadrangle, lat. 30° 15′–30° 30′, long. 91°–91° 15′. Scale 1:62,500, contour interval 10 ft. [Washington, Geological Survey] edition of Sept. 1908. 17.5×15.1 in. † 5c.

New York, Loon Lake quadrangle, lat. 44° 30′–44° 45′, long. 74°–74° 15′. Scale 1:62,500, contour interval 20 ft. [Washington, Geological Survey] edition of Aug. 1908. 17.5×12.5 in. † 5c.

Ohio, Ottawa quadrangle, lat. 41°–41° 15′, long. 84°–84° 15′. Scale 1:62,500, contour interval 10 ft. [Washington, Geological Survey] edition of July, 1908. 17.5×13.2 in. † 5c.

Pennsylvania, Middletown quadrangle, lat. 40°–40° 15′, long. 76° 30′–76° 45′. Scale 1:62,500, contour interval 20 ft. [Washington, Geological Survey] edition of Sept. 1908. 17.5×13.4 in. † 5c.

Pennsylvania, Shenango quadrangle, lat. 41° 15′–41° 30′, long. 80° 15′–80° 30′. Scale 1:62,500, contour interval 20 ft. [Washington, Geological Survey] edition of Sept. 1908. 17.5×13.2 in. † 5c.

Utah-Wyoming, Marsh Peak quadrangle, lat. 40° 30′–41°, long. 109° 30′–110°. Scale 1:125,000, contour interval 100 ft. [Washington, Geological Survey] edition of June, 1908. 17.5×13.3 in. † 5c.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

NOTE.—In its latest price-list the Smithsonian Institution publishes this note: "The publications of the Smithsonian Institution are: 1, Contributions to knowledge; 2, Miscellaneous collections; 3, annual reports; 4, special publications. No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The volumes of Contributions and of Miscellaneous collections are distributed only to public libraries and to learned institutions and societies in this country and abroad. A small edition of the papers in these two series is printed separately for sale or exchange. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remains to supply demands from other sources. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be had by purchase from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. The papers printed in the annual reports are published separately for free distribution. Publications should be ordered by the serial number. Remittances should be made payable to 'Smithsonian Institution.' An application from a library should state the number of volumes in the library and the date of establishment, and have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.

NORTHERN AND NORTHWESTERN LAKES SURVEY

NOTE.—Lake Survey charts may be obtained from U. S. Lake Survey Office, Detroit, Mich., or from U. S. Engineer Office, Buffalo, N. Y. Payments must be made before charts are sent, and if made by mail must be by postal or express money order payable to the order of U. S. Lake Survey Office if ordered from Detroit, or to the order of U. S. Engineer Office if ordered from Buffalo. These charts may also be obtained, for cash only, at U. S. Canal Office at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. They will be sent by express, the express charges to be paid by the purchaser on receipt of the charts, or free by mail at the purchaser's risk. Purchasers should indicate, when ordering the charts, whether they wish them sent by express or mail. The latter will be used when no choice is indicated.

The bulletins and supplements of the Lake Survey may be obtained free upon application at U. S. Lake Survey Office, Detroit, Mich., and at the engineer offices in Duluth, Milwaukee, Chicago, Grand Rapids, Cleveland, Buffalo, and Oswego.

ISTHMIAN CANAL COMMISSION, 1904–

NOTE.—The act approved June 28, 1902, provided for the construction of a canal across the Isthmus of Panama and also created the Isthmian Canal Commission, to be composed of 7 members. The Commission was appointed Feb. 29, 1904, and held its first meeting Mar. 22, 1904. On May 9, 1904, an Executive order placed the Commission under immediate supervision of the Secretary of War. The Commission was reorganized and the personnel changed by Executive order of Apr. 1, 1905.

Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given, octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 60th Congress, 2d session, is to be understood.

Notes of General Interest

The January issues of United States public documents include an unusual number of publications to interest and inform the intelligent citizen. Among them have been many hearings before Congressional committees, but these are not available for distribution through sale by the Superintendent of Documents save in exceptional instances. By special courtesy of the committees in charge of those inquiries, small supplies of the reports of the Tariff hearings and the Pulp and paper hearings have been obtained, and are sold at prices which will be furnished on application. For copies of the reports of the many other hearings listed in this Catalogue application should be made to the committees of Congress by which the hearings were held.

A newcomer in the family of Government periodicals is the Mount Weather Observatory Bulletin. V. 1 is now completed. It supplies a record of the kite and other experiments of the Weather Bureau made at Mount Weather.

Supply and distribution of cotton, year ending Aug. 31, 1908, is the title of an important bulletin, no. 97, Census Bureau.

A pleasing feature of the Education Bureau's annual report for 1907, just issued, is a List of the writings of former Commissioner Harris, which have been very numerous. Another feature is a sketch history of the Bureau. There is also a welcome statement that changes in legislation will permit of the issue of the annual report more promptly hereafter.

Ethnology Bureau Bulletin 34, Physiological and medical observations among the Indians of the southwestern United States and northern Mexico, is in brisk demand by students of ethnology.

The Annual report of the commissioner-general of immigration, including the reports of the chief of the Naturalization Division and the chief of the Information Division, is an informing document for those who take thought on the immigration problem. The two subreports are also separately printed.

Inventory 14, published this month, is a list of the foreign seeds and plants imported by the Agriculture Department from Jan. 31 to Mar. 31, 1908. Though the period covered is so short, the list of importations is long and contains several promising items.

The text of the 20th annual report of the Interstate Commerce Commission on the statistics of railways has been issued. The full publication, text and tables, will follow at a date not yet announced.

Tables 15–18, from the Foreign commerce and navigation report for 1908, have been issued in advance of the publication of that volume. The separate bears the title, Imported merchandise entered for consumption in United States and duties collected thereon, 1908.

The 64th Annual register of the Naval Academy, for 1908–09, has been published.

Chemistry circular 41 is of present interest. Its title is, Paper-making materials and their conservation.

The Annual report of the Light-House Board for 1908 contains, with other valuable material, numerous maps.

District of Columbia schoolhouse conditions, otherwise H. doc. 1346, 60th Cong. 2d sess., issued by the Engineer Department of the District of Columbia, is likely to prove an eye-opener for parents and taxpayers not only within the District but far beyond its narrow limits.

Most of us think of Alaska as a trackless wilderness, but here comes the Report of the Road Commissioners of Alaska, 1908, full of pictures of Alaskan roads, sled tracks, and trails, which, though not much like park roads or asphalt pavements, are certainly much better than nothing and show that the work of redeeming the Alaskan wilds from the elements goes steadily on under the irresistible impulse of the thirst for gold.

Industrial accidents is the theme of the leading article in Labor Bureau Bulletin 78, dated Sept. 1908, but not received till Jan. 1909. It seems clear enough that industrial accidents in this country are much more numerous than they should be, but the statistics are still too incomplete to warrant definite recommendations as to remedies.

There is a 3d edition of Hydrographic Office publication 105, a manual of nautical information concerning the west coast of Africa.

The Annual report of the commissioner of navigation (Commerce and Labor Dept.) for 1908 appears to carry even more than the usual completeness of statistical and other information.

In his Annual report for 1908, the director of the mint gives an account of recent experiments in coinage, especially of the St. Gaudens designs, which were very artistic but wouldn't pile up because the relief was too high, and the new designs in intaglio instead of cameo, which are presumed to be the first coins ever made with the designs sunk rather than raised and are held to be both practical and artistic. The report also tells of the removal from and restoration to the coins of the motto, "In God we trust," and gives details of the monetary situation in all countries.

A new print of the existing Dingley tariff, with the administrative act, appears under the title Tariff of 1897 on imports into United States.

Special reports to the Manufactures Bureau on the woolen, worsted, and shoddy manufacture in France and England and the lace industry in England and France have commercial value and general interest.

Fractionation of crude petroleum by capillary diffusion is learnedly discussed in Geological Survey Bulletin 365. Bulletin 366 of the same Bureau describes practical Tests of coal and briquets as fuel for house-heating boilers.

The new Manual of examinations, dated Jan. 1, 1909, and listing the spring examinations, has been issued by the Civil Service Commission.

Volume 26, Official opinions of Attorneys-General, has been issued, and is for sale, in leather binding, at $1.50 per copy.

A new revision of the Manual for courts-martial is among the publications of the month.

The treaties of the month include one (with Honduras) for extradition and twelve (with Argentine Republic, Austria-Hungary, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Costa Rica, Ecuador, Haiti, Italy, Salvador, Swiss Confederation, and Uruguay) for arbitration.

The Entomology Bureau, Agriculture Dept., announces in a circular letter that the attempt to introduce silk culture in this country has been abandoned. All the conditions were propitious except the cost of labor. Americans cannot be induced to engage in silkworm rearing in competition with the very low prices of cocoons imported from France and Italy.

Census Bureau Bulletin 96 relates to the most interesting of all subjects, Marriage and divorce.

A most convenient brochure is List of popular names of statutes, a reprint from Scott and Beaman's Index analysis.

A new edition of Naturalization laws and regulations, dated Jan. 2, 1909, supersedes all earlier editions.

A 3d edition of Circular F, Instrument Division, Weather Bureau, is a pamphlet of information respecting the theory and construction of barometers, with instructions for the care and use of Weather Bureau instruments.

The 24th annual report of the Animal Industry Bureau, 1907, will interest a large constituency. Among the more important special articles which it contains are: Preservation of our native types of horses, Some important factors in production of sanitary milk, and Eradication of tuberculosis in cattle.

The first report of the National Council of Commerce, not an official body, but apparently regarded as semi-official, has been issued from the presses of the Government Printing Office.

Alaska, coast pilot notes on Bering Sea and Arctic Ocean, replaces Bulletin 40 of the Coast and Geodetic Survey.

Annual reports on subjects of more than common interest now published for 1908 are those of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Civil Service Commission, and the commissioner of Indian affairs.

A statistical work on new lines is Imports, exports, and domestic manufactures arranged according to paragraphs of tariff law of 1897, compiled by the Census Bureau and issued by the Ways and Means Committee.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS PUBLICATIONS

The Library of Congress is the custodian of more than two million publications of all kinds, and is adding perceptibly to the number by its own issues. It has published a large number of reference lists and bibliographies and a smaller number of reproductions of historic manuscripts. A nearly complete catalogue of these publications just published by the Superintendent of Documents as Price list 34 is somewhat remarkable for its extent and variety. All of the publications thus listed are offered for sale at the prices affixed.

The Library of Congress has duplicate copies of the works mentioned below, available for exchange with other libraries. These have been valued for exchange purposes at the prices indicated.

~~Poore,~~ B. P., comp. Federal and State constitutions, colonial charters, and other organic laws of United States. 2 v. each $1.25. [Printed under an order of the House of Representatives, June 6, 1878.]

Madison papers, 4 v_____ each $1.00

The Report of the librarian of Congress, 1904, says of this series:

> In 1848 Congress purchased from Mrs. Madison other Madison manuscripts, appropriating $25,000 for the purchase. On August 18, 1856, the sum of $6,000 was appropriated to printing and publishing 1,000 copies of the papers of Madison, then in the State Department, under the direction of the Joint Committee on the Library of Congress. Four volumes were printed under this appropriation, through the publishing house of J. B. Lippincott & Co., the copyright (dated 1865) standing in their name. Mr. Griffin, of the Library, has found that the volumes were compiled by William C. Rives and edited and indexed by Philip R. Fendall.

ENGINEER MAP OF MISSISSIPPI RIVER

The U. S. Engineer Office, Rock Island, Ill., is now supplying, at $1.35 for the set, a map of the river, from the Falls of St. Anthony to the mouth of the Missouri, in 29 sheets, 14 by 24 inches each. This is the 1-inch-to-1-mile map.

SUDWORTH'S TREES OF THE PACIFIC SLOPE

As inquiries for this monograph are numerous, and it is not available for distribution, some explanation seems to be called for. The announcement of the publication appears to have been premature. It was not in popular form suitable for general distribution and the number of copies printed was small. Beyond the copies sent to the depository libraries there has been no popular distribution, and the Department of Agriculture has withdrawn it from publication. Later on, however, at a date not yet fixed, the material will be embodied in a popular bulletin of the Forest Service and offered to the public by sale and otherwise. It will be the first part of a comprehensive work intended ultimately to be descriptive of the whole silva of the country.

UNITED STATES NAVAL MEDICAL BULLETIN

This new quarterly magazine issued by the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, Navy Department, has become so popular that the demand for free copies is greater than can be supplied. Beginning with the next number (Apr. 1909), the Superintendent of Documents will be prepared to sell the Bulletin either by single numbers or annual subscription. The price cannot be given in advance, owing to the differences in size of the numbers, but will be announced immediately after the issue of each number. In the case of annual subscriptions it will be necessary to deposit $1 in advance. If this proves to be too much the balance will be returned or may be applied on the next year's subscription.

HISTORICALLY USEFUL

That stately quarterly, The American historical review, in its January number, has this note on one of the Notes of general interest in a recent number of the Monthly catalogue:

> The Monthly catalogue of United States public documents for Sept. 1908, issued by the Superintendent of Documents, has a useful note of several pages on the history of the publications of United States statutes by the Government.

BULLETIN THIRTEEN

The February number of Public Libraries has this to say of Bulletin 13, a recently issued advertising publication of the Documents Office:

> The Government recently has issued a small, conveniently arranged pamphlet, entitled "Government documents for the people." It contains a list of some of the topics treated of in United States publications—chemistry, food and diet, good roads, live stock, water supplies, etc. There is a brief and illuminating statement of the methods of publication and distribution of public documents, followed by a select list of titles and prices of some of the more popular and instructive of the public documents. With this pamphlet goes a collection of still smaller pamphlets, about 25 in all, which list and describe the chief publications of the Government on various topics.

In the same magazine, Mary K. Hasbrouck, librarian of the Ogdensburg, N. Y., public library, publishes a letter detailing the troubles of small libraries with public documents and suggesting a cure which, though alluring, seems to the Documents Office utopian. But she concludes with a hopeful postscript, thus:

> The just received pamphlet, Government documents for the people, with its clear instructions and price lists of a few of the more popular publications, brings a slight glow on our eastern horizon.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

NOTE.—The publications of the United States Geological Survey consist of annual reports (restricted to one volume each, beginning with report for 1902), bulletins, Mineral resources, Professional papers, and Water-supply papers; and maps, Monographs, and folios of the Geologic atlas and the Topographic atlas of the United States, which are sold at prices ranging from 5c. to $11.00 each. A wholesale rate has been established for topographic and geologic folios, whenever the sum transmitted solely for folios at the wholesale price amounts to at least $5.10; that is, a discount of 40 per cent will be given whenever 34 or more folios that sell singly for 25c., or their equivalent in higher priced folios, are ordered at one time. Address the Director of the Geological Survey, Washington. For topographic sheets see page 341.

Topographic sheets

NOTE.—The Geological Survey is making a topographic map of the United States. The sheets of which it is composed are projected without reference to political divisions, and are designated by some prominent town or natural feature found on them. Three scales are used, 1:62,500, 1:125,000, and 1:250,000. These correspond, approximately, to 1 mile, 2 miles, and 4 miles to 1 linear inch on the map. The size, unless otherwise given, is about 17.5 inches in height by 11.5 to 16 inches in width, exclusive of the margin, the width varying with the latitude. A description of the topographic map is printed on the reverse of each sheet.

About one-third of the area of the country, excluding outlying possessions, has been mapped, nearly every State being represented. Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, and the District of Columbia are completely mapped. Sheets of the regular size are sold by the Survey at 5c. each; but in lots of 100 or more copies, whether of the same sheet or of different sheets, the price is 3c. each. In no case can orders be filled at the wholesale rate unless the sum remitted solely for topographic maps amounts to at least $3.00.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

NOTE.—In its latest price-list the Smithsonian Institution publishes this note: "The publications of the Smithsonian Institution are: 1, Contributions to knowledge; 2, Miscellaneous collections; 3, annual reports; 4, special publications. No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The volumes of Contributions and of Miscellaneous collections are distributed only to public libraries and learned institutions and societies in this country and abroad. A small edition of the papers in these two series is printed separately for sale or exchange. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remains to supply demands from other sources. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be had by purchase from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. The papers printed in the annual reports are published separately for free distribution. Publications should be ordered by the serial number. Remittances should be made payable to 'Smithsonian Institution.' An application from a library should state the number of volumes in the library and the date of establishment, and have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.

Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given, octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 60th Congress, 2d session, is to be understood.

Notes of General Interest

The Department of Agriculture, as usual, issued many interesting publications during the month of February. Among them are Farmers' bulletins 341, Basket willow, being a condensation and revision of Bulletin 46 of the Forest Service; 199, Corn growing (revised edition), and 347, Repair of farm equipment, the two latter published by the Plant Industry Bureau; 349, Dairy industry in the South; 350, Dehorning of cattle; and 351, Tuberculin test of cattle for tuberculosis, issued by the Animal Industry Bureau.

The Animal Industry Bureau has also issued two more parts (22 and 23) of Bulletin 39, Index-catalogue of medical and veterinary zoology, authors, P to Qvortrup, by Charles Wardell Stiles and Albert Hassall.

A revised edition of the Organization lists of agricultural colleges and experiment stations in United States has been issued by the Experiment Stations Office as Bulletin 206.

Use of dead timber in national forests is an interesting circular, number 113, published by the Forest Service.

The Plant Industry Bureau furnishes two important bulletins, 140, Spineless prickly pears, by David Griffiths, and 143, Principles and practical methods of curing tobacco, by W. W. Garner. Bulletin 140 states in the preface that it is a preliminary treatment of the subject, which it is desirable to have published at the present time for the information of the many farmers and ranchers in the arid and warmer sections of this country who are vitally interested in forage crops.

Index to Yearbooks of Department of Agriculture, 1901–05, will, no doubt, prove to be a useful publication for reference purposes. It is issued by the Publications Division as Bulletin 9 and supplements the index previously published, which covered the years 1894–1900.

Another interesting publication of the Department of Agriculture is Bulletin 55 of the Soils Bureau, Soils of United States, based upon work of Bureau to Jan. 1, 1908, by Milton Whitney.

Thirteen proclamations relating to the national forests, issued by the President, appear this month, three establishing new national forests, the Marquette national forest, the Michigan national forest, and the Nevada national forest, and ten enlarging the boundaries of the following national forests, Black Hills, Cleveland, Dixie, Gila, Klamath, Pecos, Prescott, Sioux, Toiyabe, and Tonto.

The Geological Survey this month furnishes, among other publications, three important quarto volumes. They are Professional paper 58 (a belated document of the 59th Congress, 2d session), Guadalupian fauna, by George H. Girty; 60, Interpretation of topographic maps, by Rollin D. Salisbury and Wallace W. Atwood; and 61, Glaciation of Uinta and Wasatch mountains, by Wallace W. Atwood.

Bulletin 367 of the Geological Survey, Significance of drafts in steam-boiler practice is the first of a series of two or three on this subject; the succeeding bulletins will be along the same lines but of a more advanced character.

Among the annual reports appearing in this number of the Monthly catalogue are the following, each for the fiscal year 1908, Annual report of Public Printer, 14th annual report of superintendent of documents, Report of commissioner of General Land Office, Report of superintendent of Coast and Geodetic Survey, and volumes 1, 2, 4, 5, and 6 of the 9 volumes of the Annual reports of War Department.

In order to meet the demand for general information relating to the magnetic phenomena of the earth by county engineers and surveyors throughout the country, the Coast and Geodetic Survey has issued a reprint, revised and extended, of the first part of United States magnetic declination tables and isogonic charts, 1902, entitled Principal facts of earth's magnetism and methods of determining true meridian and magnetic declination.

United States magnetic tables and maguetic charts for 1905, by L. A. Bauer, published by the Coast and Geodetic Survey, is intended to supersede United States magnetic declination tables for 1902, except the first 100 pages and all of Appendix 4, Report for 1906, and takes the place of the proposed publication referred to on page 213 of that appendix.

The Fisheries Bureau contributes a pamphlet entitled Aquatic plants in pond culture, which gives a list, with accompanying text illustrations, of plants which have been found valuable in the pond culture of various species of fish.

The 22d annual report of commissioner of labor, 1907, contains the labor laws of the United States with decisions of courts relating thereto and presents a compilation of the labor laws enacted by the legislatures of the various States and Territories in force at the close of 1907, with the exception of Oklahoma. Side notes have been placed on all the pages where labor laws have been reproduced and a comprehensive index has been added.

From the Light-House Board comes the List of lights on western rivers, corrected to Oct. 1, 1908, which will no doubt be useful to pilots on those waters.

The Annual series of consular reports, published by the Manufactures Bureau, relates this month to the trade statistics for 1907 of British East Indies, China, Peru, Ecuador, Paraguay, Servia, and Roumania. The pamphlet on Servia is particularly interesting at this moment, as showing the richness and beauty of that comparatively little known country, which Austria is so anxious to possess.

The Navigation Bureau, Commerce and Labor Dept., publishes the 40th annual list of merchant vessels of United States, with official numbers and signal letters, and lists of vessels belonging to Government with distinguishing signals, year ended June 30, 1908.

Among the most practical and useful experiments of the Department of Agriculture have been those along the line of wood preservation conducted by the Forest Service. The Census Bureau, in cooperation with the Forest Service, has gotten out a pamphlet, Forest products, no. 9, Poles purchased, 1907, which shows the purchase of seasoned poles by telephone and telegraph companies, etc., in 1907.

An interesting publication which, unfortunately, can not be obtained by the general public, is Rules of House of Representatives with notes on practice thereunder, by Asher C. Hinds. This edition of the Rules gives in brief but comprehensive form the practice which has grown up about each rule and which has in effect become a part of it. Many of the rules have been in existence since the first organization of the House in 1789. With the growth of membership, increase of business, and development of principles of effective parliamentary action the practice, as expressed principally by the rulings of the speakers, has supplemented these rules and even modified them essentially.

Another publication, of interest to lawyers, is Rules of Supreme Court of United States adopted Jan. 7, 1884, and rules of practice for circuit and district courts in equity and admiralty cases, and orders in reference to appeals from Court of Claims.

The War Department contributes Information relative to appointment and admission of cadets to Military Academy, a revised edition of the Soldier's handbook, a revised edition of Provisional regulations for saber exercise, Army, issued by the General Staff Corps, and Circular showing distribution of troops of line of Army, Jan. 1866–Jan. 1909, issued by the Adjutant-General.

The Isthmian Canal Commission publishes a Manual of information concerning employments for service on Isthmus of Panama, revised Feb. 4, 1909, from which the following note is taken: "All persons seeking employment in the Isthmian Service are cautioned not to go to the Isthmus without an appointment secured through the Washington office or through an authorized agent of the Isthmian Canal Commission. In view of the fact that the force on the Isthmus is complete, under no circumstances should these instructions be disregarded. Special attention is called to the fact that all clerical positions in the Isthmian Service, including the position of timekeeper, are subject to civil-service examination."

Though by no means as comprehensive as the Report for 1907, the 14th annual report of the superintendent of documents, covering the fiscal year 1908, presents statistics and other information which will no doubt be of interest to the library world. It was written mainly for the information of correspondents, and its careful perusal will give them a clear idea of the business methods of the Documents

Office and tend to promote harmonious intercourse. Taken together, the 13th and 14th reports are recommended to all who are seeking information relative to public documents in their many phases.

The Official list of depository libraries, corrected to Jan. 1, 1909, and printed as Bulletin 12 of the Documents Office, was eighteen months in preparation, and while compiled primarily for information of Members of Congress, it will also possess interest for the librarians. It should be borne in mind that designated depositories receive all and much more than do the Geological depositories, but that they must be especially designated to receive the Official gazette of the Patent Office, which is the only publication forwarded to Official gazette depositories. The preface of this Bulletin contains a sketch of legislation enacted, giving the three classes of depository libraries; defines their privileges and restrictions, and explains the character and quantity of material furnished. Revised editions of this Bulletin will appear at stated intervals.

Number 13 of the "consolidated index" provided for by the act of Jan. 12, 1895, with title, 59th Congress, 2d session, Dec. 3, 1906–Mar. 4, 1907, index to subjects of documents and reports and to committees, Senators, and Representatives presenting them, with tables of same in numerical order, also appears this month as a contribution from the Documents Office.

The Washington public will be glad to know about a publication prepared by Mr. Bishop, superintendent of the reading room at the Library of Congress, entitled Information for readers in main reading room. While the directions given are somewhat elementary, it is hoped they will prove useful to visiting readers who are unfamiliar with the regulations of the Library of Congress reading room.

The medical fraternity may find suggestive the recent Instructions for medical officers of Navy, prepared by the surgeon-general of the Navy. The Medicine and Surgery Bureau has also prepared Regulations and instructions for Nurse Corps, Navy, 1909.

The Smithsonian Institution and its subordinate bureau, the National Museum, have issued this month a great deal of material of absorbing interest to the scientific world. The Smithsonian report for 1907, the latest one issued, appeared in Dec. 1908, and is for sale by the superintendent of documents at $1.75. The articles contained in this report also appear separately and many are listed in this number of the Monthly catalogue. Another interesting Smithsonian publication appears this month in bound form, v. 34 of Proceedings of National Museum. This volume is profusely illustrated and includes the proceedings numbered from 1591 to 1630. Other scientific publications of the Smithsonian Institution and the National Museum are also catalogued in our February issue.

There is always a demand for the Treasury Department publication entitled Compilation of principal laws of United States relating to loans and currency issued by the Loans and Currency Division. Now we have a 1909 edition.

Acting under instructions from Secretary Cortelyou, the Internal Revenue Commissioner, Hon. John G. Capers, and Dr. C. A. Crampton, chief chemist, recently visited Great Britain, Belgium, France, and Germany for the purpose of investigating the various systems of governmental control employed in Europe for production and use of denatured or industrial alcohol free of tax. A special report of their investigations has been printed under the title, Denatured alcohol at home and abroad.

The California ground squirrels have become a pest to the inhabitants of the Pacific Coast States. Mr. C. Hart Merriam, chief of the Biological Survey Bureau of the Department of Agriculture, has prepared for the Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service an instructive article, which is reprinted from v. 23, no. 52 of Public health reports. Laboratory experiments have demonstrated that ground squirrels can be infected with plague, and the destruction of these pests has become a matter of national and local importance, from a sanitary as well as an economic standpoint.

DEFINITION OF "PUBLIC DOCUMENT"

The following definition of the term "public document" should not be considered as legal or official. It was prepared by the superintendent of documents for inclusion in the preface to the 3d edition of the Checklist of United States public documents, advance sheets of which are now being issued. We publish it here in the hope that it may prove as helpful to others as it has proved to be to this Office.

In collecting a library or making catalogues or lists of public documents, the ever recurring question is, "Which are and which are not public documents?"

Since 1861, the date of the establishment of the Government Printing Office, the decision is an easy one, for, with but few exceptions, as when the publishing office through some freak or fancy has prevailed upon the Public Printer to omit the official imprint, or in cases of works published but not printed by the Government, all the issues are imprinted "Washington, Government Printing Office."

Prior to 1861, it was difficult to determine just what publications were to be included in the library and lists. In this matter a very liberal view has been taken, and although it has been ruled to debar any and all publications which, however closely allied to the operations of the Government, were not found to have been printed or purchased by it, some exceptions have been made where it was doubtful as to the publisher.

The term "public document" was first legally defined in sec. 13 of chapter 63, Laws of 29th Congress, 2d session, approved Mar. 3, 1847, as follows: "Such publications or books as have been or may be published, procured, or purchased by order of either House of Congress, or by joint resolution of the two Houses, shall be considered as public documents."

By act approved June 23, 1874, Laws of 43d Congress, 1st session, sec. 13 of chapter 456, this definition is abridged to the following: "The term 'public document' is hereby defined to be all publications printed by order of Congress or either House thereof." This definition was made in relation to postage and is certainly most inadequate.

The policy upon which this Office has worked in collecting its library and preparing its catalogues and lists has been even broader than either of the above paragraphs indicates, and its definition of a "public document" may be stated as follows: Any publication printed at Government expense or published by authority of Congress or any Government publishing office, or of which an edition has been bought by Congress or any Government office for division among Members of Congress or distribution to Government officials or the public, shall be considered a "public document."

ADVANCE SHEETS OF THIRD EDITION OF CHECKLIST OF UNITED STATES PUBLIC DOCUMENTS

The month of February marks the anniversary of the publication of the first issue of the Advance sheets of 3d edition of Checklist of United States public documents. Steady progress has been made during the year.

The following statement shows what constitutes a complete set for the Executive Departments and independent publishing offices from Agriculture Department to Interior Department. All in the list below have been issued except three in the Interior Department (I 23, I 24, and I 27), and it is expected that these three will appear soon, perhaps as soon as or even before this number of the Monthly catalogue issues from the press.

Class no.	Department	No. of sheets
A.	Agriculture Department	33
AR.	American Republics Bureau	1
C.	Commerce and Labor Department	16
CS.	Civil Service Commission	1
DC.	District of Columbia	35
FC.	Fish Commission	1
FS.	Freedman's Savings and Trust Company	1
GB.	Geographic Board	1
GP.	Government Printing Office	3
I.	Interior Department	27
	Total	119

In addition to this list one more sheet has been issued, namely, "Class 53d Congress," which supplies some long-sought information relative to the serial numbers for that Congress, heretofore obtainable only in the second edition of the check list, a publication now out of print.

This advance sheet will prove of great service to those who are attempting to arrange their Congressional set according to serial numbers, as with the "Tables of and annotated index to the Congressional series of United States public documents," and the schedules contained in the Document catalogues, beginning with the 54th Congress, their information on that subject will be complete and accurate.

The compilation of the Advance sheet of Congressional tables from the 15th Congress to date and of the Advance sheets for the remaining Executive Departments and independent publishing offices is progressing as rapidly as possible.

The Advance sheets have justified their existence. From many quarters we hear that they are proving helpful in solving problems connected with United States public documents, and although there are many Government publishing offices from whom we have received no replies to our requests for cooperation, on the other hand we have received many valuable suggestions from some of the issuing offices and from librarians all over the United States. These suggestions receive careful consideration and the permanent Checklist when issued will include such additional information as we receive from all sources. We invite further cooperation from all who are interested.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

NOTE.—In its latest price-list the Smithsonian Institution publishes this note: "The publications of the Smithsonian Institution are: 1, Contributions to knowledge; 2, Miscellaneous collections; 3, annual reports; 4, special publications. No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The volumes of Contributions and of Miscellaneous collections are distributed only to public libraries and to learned institutions and societies in this country and abroad. A small edition of the papers in these two series is printed separately for sale or exchange. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remains to supply demands from other sources. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be had by purchase from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. The papers printed in the annual reports are published separately for free distribution. Publications should be ordered by the serial number. Remittances should be made payable to 'Smithsonian Institute.' An application from a library should state the number of volumes in the library and the date of establishment, and have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.

Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given, octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 60th Congress, 2d session, is to be understood.

Notes of General Interest

SERIAL NUMBERS

So many inquiries have reached this office relative to the omission of the serial numbers from the backs of those volumes of the Congressional series of documents and reports for the 60th Congress, 1st session, which have been delivered to the libraries in their new buckram binding, that some explanation needs to be made of the change in the issue of these Congressional publications, which made necessary this omission, brought about by the terms of Joint Resolution No. 3 of the 60th Congress, 1st session, approved January 15, 1908 (35 Stat. L., part 1, page 565), and initiated with the publications of the 60th Congress, 1st session.

The explanation is a simple one and should be acceptable to all. The provisions of the resolution relating to this subject are as follows:

* * * Provided, that of the "usual number," the copies which are intended for distribution to State and Territorial libraries and other designated depositories of all annual or serial publications originating in or prepared by an Executive Department, bureau, office, commission, or board shall not be numbered in the document or report series of either House of Congress, but shall be designated by title and bound as hereinafter provided. * * *

SEC. 2. That in the binding of Congressional documents and reports for distribution by the Superintendent of Documents to State and Territorial libraries and other designated depositories, every publication of sufficient size on any one subject shall hereafter be bound separately and receive the title suggested by the subject of the volume, and the others shall be distributed in unbound form as soon as printed.

There has always been a Congressional edition as well as a Departmental edition of the annuals and serials affected by the resolution, and the only change wrought is in the sending of these publications to the libraries in their Departmental rather than in their Congressional prints as heretofore.

The Congressional series, or what has been known as the "sheep set" has practically been abolished. There are to be a few sets, for the official use of Congress, the volumes of which will comprise the full series of numbered documents and reports, but even these volumes will not be bound in sheep skin; so that the proper term "Congressional Series" will have to be applied to these sets hereafter, as "sheep set" would have no significance. These complete sets can be grouped by serial numbers as heretofore, but the application of these symbols to the library issue in the future, while still possible, is not advised.

The library edition thus established will be uniform as to contents and binding with the limited complete Congressional edition, although the title pages of the annuals and serials will be without the document notation, and the back-titles will conform to those in the Departmental edition.

It will thus be seen that all the publications which contributed to the "sheep set" will still be received by the libraries, and that nothing will be sacrificed by the change, except a costly and inferior binding and long delays which were inevitable under the old method. The books will all be bound in a distinctive buckram instead of sheep skin, so that their identity as Congressional documents will still be maintained.

A schedule will be issued each year as soon as it is definitely known how many volumes there will be in the complete set for a session of Congress, and this schedule will give a description of each volume and its serial number in a complete Congressional set, and will indicate whether it is sent to the libraries in its Departmental or Congressional form.

These schedules can be used as checklists, and any librarian who so desires can place all the volumes on the shelves in the old way by serial numbers, thus preserving the method in vogue for so many years of keeping together all the publications printed by order of Congress, no matter how dissimilar. The purely Congressional volumes will necessarily be kept together, and the serial numbers can be applied as soon as this office is able to furnish them, but the annuals and serials, being distinctive, should be shelved in their respective department classes, and dummies inserted among the Congressional publications if identification with the Congressional series is desired.

The object of the change in issue brought about by the resolution was to enable this office to forward these useful documents immediately upon their publication, instead of holding them for from six to eighteen months for the purpose of binding in nondescript volumes of an arbitrarily numbered set. This prompt sending which the change assures has not been possible during the 60th Congress, owing to the lack of proper materials for binding, but in the future, when the back work has been caught up (and we anticipate this will be accomplished in two months), the delivery to the libraries will be simultaneous with that to the publishing offices.

It would not be possible to accomplish this immediate delivery and at the same time assign serial numbers to the volumes in advance. After careful consideration, it was decided to send the books out as issued and later furnish the serial numbers to be applied if desired, rather than hold the books for many months until the numbers could be assigned.

Any change in method of issue is no doubt repugnant to a busy librarian, but if carefully considered its advantages will be recognized. In a later issue of the Monthly catalogue will appear an article on "The passing of the sheep set," which will fully set forth the entire history of the evolution of the most wonderful series of all Government publications.

Col. Goethals, who is at the head of the canal-building forces on the Isthmus, has put in writing a vigorous defence of the lock plan and criticism of the sea-level plan. This has been printed in a handy pamphlet.

A very large and attractive volume is Professional paper 63 of the Geological Survey, devoted to description and illustration of the Georgetown quadrangle in the mining district of Colorado.

The annual report of the governor of Arizona carries with it a new map of the Territory.

The Copyright Office, Library of Congress, has issued the new copyright law as Bulletin 14. The law becomes effective July 1, 1909.

The Digest of decisions of the Treasury Department for the calendar year 1908 is out.

The little pamphlet from the Census Bureau entitled Instructions to special agents, census of fishing industry, 1908, contains matter of interest not only to special agents but to mere fish fanciers as well.

A special report on the machine tool trade in Germany, France, and other European countries comes from the Manufactures Bureau.

Hygienic Laboratory Bulletin 47, Studies on thyroid, will command the attention of a large medical public.

A new feature in document publication is the recent action of the International Bureau of the American Republics, this Bureau having reprinted for distribution on its own account 6 of the recent special reports of the Commerce and Labor Department and the Manufactures Bureau. The documents thus distinguished are Reports on trade conditions in Ecuador, Colombia, Cuba, and Mexico, these 4 being by Chas. M. Pepper, and Report on trade conditions in Brazil, and in Central America and on west coast of South America, these 2 by Lincoln Hutchinson.

Proceedings of the conference with representatives of labor in the office of the Secretary of Commerce and Labor, Feb. 10 and 11, 1909, are now published in a pamphlet of 133 pages.

Statistically-minded persons will be interested in the lively discussion found in a 43-page pamphlet entitled The Census Office and coordination of statistics, being the reply of the director of the census to the inquiries of the Interdepartmental Statistical Committee.

Mr. W. A. Graham Clark makes a special illustrated report of 144 pages, Manufacture of woolen, worsted, and shoddy in France and England, and jute in Scotland, to the Manufactures Bureau.

The Government entomologists have come to the conclusion that the extermination of the San Jose scale can no longer be considered possible. But they believe it can be controlled and kept in check by proper measures, and what these measures are they tell in Entomology Bureau Circular 42, of which a 5th edition is now published.

The Nevada mouse plague of 1907–8; Irrigation in Sacramento Valley, Cal.; Forest planting in western Kansas; Apple blotch, a serious disease of southern orchards; and Agricultural conditions in southern Texas are new agricultural titles each one of which will find an interested constituency.

A new edition of Navy regulations, imprinted 1909, is off the press.

The 1908 report of the Life-Saving Service necessarily carries many stories of hairbreadth escapes along with its more prosy statistical material.

Mortality statistics, 1907, 8th annual report, issued by the Census Bureau, relates only to those States or other civil divisions of the United States which provide by law for the registration of births and deaths. Though the registration area has more than doubled since the publication of these reports began, it still includes little more than half the population of the country.

That standard classic of the agricultural world, Special report on diseases of cattle, is out in a new edition, revised and brought up to date by the Animal Industry Bureau.

Mr. J. O. Manson, a chief of division in the Treasury Department, who was designated by the Secretary to accompany as a financial expert the National Monetary Commission to Europe last year, has now submitted to Senator Aldrich, the chairman of the Commission, a report on the fiscal systems of the United States, England, France, and Germany, and it has been printed in a pamphlet of 86 pages.

Mr. Henry Talbott of the Interstate Commerce Commission has compressed into a 45-page pamphlet a Table of cases cited in the opinions of the Interstate Commerce Commission during the whole term of its existence from Apr. 1887 to Jan. 1909, covering the contents of the 14 volumes of its reports.

A year's tests at the Government's Denver testing plant in the washing and coking of coal are reported in Bulletin 368 of the United States Geological Survey.

Water-supply paper 225, from the United States Geological Survey, Ground waters of the Indio region, California, includes also a sketch of the Colorado desert. It is a country of sand dunes, mud volcanoes, deserts, and sinks, including the Salton basin. The author, Walter C. Mendenhall, expresses the opinion that the description of the Desert written by Professor W. P. Blake for the Pacific Railroad survey of 1853 remains the best description yet published. It is an interesting district. To reduce it to orderly agricultural uses will be an achievement worth while.

The Army and Navy registers for 1909 are published.

The Proceedings of the conference on the care of dependent children, held in Washington, D. C., Jan. 25 and 26 last, has been published as Senate document 721.

Mr. Newell, chief of the Reclamation Service, has visited Hawaii for the purpose of inquiring into its attractions for home makers, and sets forth his plain unvarnished conclusions in Senate document 668.

Imports and duties, 1894–1907, described by the Democratic leader in the House of Representatives as the most illuminating book on the tariff question yet issued, has been reissued as House document 1504.

A rather rare volume, first issued in Albany in 1821, and carrying in the fashion of its day a very long title-page in which the chief title is Secret proceedings and debates of the Convention of 1787 by which the Constitution of the United States was formed, will not be so rare hereafter, having been reprinted as Senate document 728 of the 60th Congress, 2d session. The authors were Robert Yates of New York and Luther Martin of Maryland, both members of the Convention and both unfriendly to the Constitution as adopted.

Notes on tariff revision, a very large book filled with data concerning tariff matters, has been reprinted as House document 1503.

All of the new Congressional document issues mentioned in this month's Notes are documents of the 60th Congress, 2d session.

EXPERIMENT STATION RECORD

It has been found necessary to increase the size of the Record in order to cover fully the literature of agricultural investigation. It is therefore proposed to issue from time to time, as the surplus of material accumulates, extra numbers, called "abstract numbers," which shall be made up almost exclusively of abstracts, that is, they will contain no editorial notes and only a limited number of current notes. Otherwise these numbers will be exactly like the other numbers and will be numbered and paged consecutively in the series. It is estimated that four such extra numbers (one every three months) during the year will meet present requirements. The first of these extra numbers, Volume XX, No. 8, of the regular series, is now in press. Another will probably be submitted shortly before the end of the fiscal year, thus closing Volume XX, with twelve numbers and indexes, with the fiscal year instead of in August of the succeeding fiscal year as in case of previous volumes. All of the details for subsequent volumes have not been definitely decided upon, but it is thought probable that two volumes a year, commencing with the first and seventh months of the fiscal year, July and January, will be found a convenient arrangement. Under this plan each volume would consist of six monthly and two abstract numbers.

UNITED STATES NAVAL MEDICAL BULLETIN

This new quarterly magazine issued by the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, Navy Department, has become so popular that the demand for free copies is greater than can be supplied. Beginning with the number for April, 1909, the Superintendent of Documents will be prepared to sell the Bulletin, either by single numbers or annual subscription. The price can not be given in advance, owing to the differences in size of the numbers, but those who so request will be notified of the price immediately after the issue of each number. This is a correction of a note on the same subject that was published in the January, 1909, Monthly catalogue.

WASHINGTON WEATHER MAPS

Beginning with July 1, 1901, there are 2 prints of the Washington map, except on Sundays and holidays, when only 1 print appears, these Sunday and holiday maps including the additional information which on week days appears only on the later issue. In so far as the matter found on the map itself is concerned the 2 prints are identical; but the 1st print contains only the forecasts prepared at Washington and applicable to the Washington forecast district, whereas the 2d print contains the forecasts for the entire United States, which is divided into 8 forecast districts, the centers of which are: Boston, Chicago, Denver, Louisville, New Orleans, Portland (Oreg.), San Francisco, and Washington. It will be noted, therefore, that for every day in the week, including Sundays, forecasts for various districts in the United States appear on the Washington map, the Sunday map, however, containing forecasts for a limited number of districts. For the days when 2 prints appear the forecast information on the 1st print is limited to the Middle Eastern and Southeastern States.

Although 2d prints of the Washington map have been appearing since July 1, 1901, the Public Documents Library has none of the 2d prints prior to February 1, 1909.

NOTABLE REPORTS AND ADDRESSES

A list, continued from the January, 1909, Monthly catalogue, of a few of the notable reports and addresses that have been made to Congress, showing where they may be found in the "sheep set":

Jefferson, Thomas.
Report on cod and whale fisheries. 1791. 42d Cong. 2d sess., H. mis. doc. 32.

Maury, Matthew Fontaine.
Wind and current charts. 1849. 30th Cong. 2d sess., H. rp. 112.

Maynard, Washburn.
Report on seal fisheries of Alaska. 1874. 44th Cong. 1st sess., H. ex. doc. 43.

Mayo, Robert.
Resolution to buy 1000 copies of Mayo's History of the Treasury Dept. 1849. 30th Cong. 2d sess., S. rp. 285.

Meade, Richard Worsam.
Message from President Monroe transmitting information as to the imprisonment in Spain of Meade, an American citizen. 1818. 15th Cong. 1st sess., H. doc. 67.

Medill, William.
Answer to charge of nullifying will of Congress and request for investigation of conduct as Comptroller of Treasury. 1860. 36th Cong. 1st sess., S. ex. doc. 51.

Meeker, Nathan C.
Massacre of Meeker and abduction of wife and daughter, at White River Indian agency. 1879. 46th Cong. 2d sess., H. ex. doc. 83. Also, 46th Cong. 2d sess., H. mis. doc. 38.

Meigs, Montgomery Cunningham.
Orders and instructions under which he traveled abroad. 1876. 44th Cong. 1st sess., H. ex. doc. 110.

Melville, George Wallace.
Promotion of Melville for meritorious services. 1889. 50th Cong. 2d sess., H. rp. 4026.

Mendenhall, Thomas Corwin.
Report on weights and measures. 1890. 51st Cong. 1st sess., S. ex. doc. 57.

Menocal, Anecito Garcia.
Report of Nicaragua Canal surveying party. 1885. 49th Cong. 1st sess., S. ex. doc. 99.

Annual message containing the "Monroe doctrine." 1823. 18th Cong. 1st sess., S. doc. 1.

Moore, John Bassett.
Report on extradition, prepared for International American Conference. 1890. 51st Cong. 1st sess., S. ex. doc. 55.

Morton, Oliver Perry.
Views on character, extent, and effect of Chinese immigration. 1878. 45th Cong. 2d sess., S. mis. doc. 20. [Posthumously published.]

Neill, Edward Duffield.
Memorial praying the publication of the Records of the Virginia Company of London from ms. in Library of Congress. 1868. 40th Cong. 2d sess., S. mis. doc. 84.
Note.—Mr. Neill, who was a well-known author and scholar of his day, had familiarized himself with the obsolete chirography and interesting contents of the Records, and proposed, without compensation for himself, to undertake their publication if Congress would allow him two copyists at $80 a month each for a year and a small sum for stationery and contingent expenses, but Congress did not listen to his appeal, though it printed as a Senate document ten pages of extracts and notes from the Records which Mr. Neill had submitted with his memorial. Not till 1906, under a different administration of the Library, were the Records of the Virginia Company finally printed.

Nelson, Edward William.
Birds of Bering Sea and Arctic Ocean. 1883. 47th Cong. 2d sess., H. ex. doc. 105.

Nettleton, Edward S.
Final report on irrigation, etc. 1892. 52d Cong. 1st sess., S. ex. doc. 41.

New, John Chalfant, and other U. S. consuls.
Statements relative to steamship subsidies in foreign countries. 1890. 51st Cong. 1st sess., H. mis. doc. 234.

Newberry, John Strong.
Paleozoic fishes of North America. 1890. 51st Cong. 1st sess., H. mis. doc. 249.

Newcomb, Simon.
Observations of transit of Venus, Dec. 1874, pt. 1. 1880. 46th Cong. 1st sess., S. ex. doc. 31.
Report on improvement of astronomical instruments. 1884. 48th Cong. 1st sess., S. ex. doc. 96.

Nicollet, Jean Nicholas.
Survey of hydrographical basin of upper Mississippi River. 1840. 26th Cong. 2d sess., S. doc. 237.

Nimmo, Joseph, jr.
Foreign commerce of United States and decadence of American shipping. 1869. 46th Cong. 2d sess., H. ex. doc. 86.

Nourse, Joseph Everett.
Maritime Canal of Suez from its inauguration, Nov. 17, 1869, to 1884. 48th Cong. 1st sess., S. ex. doc. 198.

This list will be continued.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

Note.—The publications of the United States Geological Survey consist of annual reports (restricted to one volume each, beginning with report for 1902), bulletins, Mineral resources, Professional papers, and Water-supply papers; and maps, Monographs, and folios of the Geologic atlas and the Topographic atlas of the United States, which are sold at prices ranging from 5c. to $11.00 each. A wholesale rate has been established for topographic and geologic folios, whenever the sum transmitted solely for folios at the wholesale price amounts to at least $5.10; that is, a discount of 40 per cent will be given whenever 34 or more folios that sell singly for 25c., or their equivalent in higher priced folios, are ordered at one time. Address the Director of the Geological Survey, Washington. For topographic sheets see page 504.

Topographic sheets

NOTE.—The Geological Survey is making a topographic map of the United States. The sheets of which it is composed are projected without reference to political divisions, and are designated by some prominent town or natural feature found on them. Three scales are used, 1: 62,500, 1: 125,000, and 1: 250,000. These correspond, approximately, to 1 mile, 2 miles, and 4 miles to 1 linear inch on the map. The size, unless otherwise given, is about 17.5 inches in height by 11.5 to 16 inches in width, exclusive of the margin, the width varying with the latitude. A description of the topographic map is printed on the reverse of each sheet.

About one-third of the area of the country, excluding outlying possessions, has been mapped, nearly every State being represented. Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, and the District of Columbia are completely mapped. Sheets of the regular size are sold by the Survey at 5c. each; but in lots of 100 or more copies, whether of the same sheet or of different sheets, the price is 3c. each. In no case can orders be filled at the wholesale rate unless the sum remitted solely for topographic maps amounts to at least $3.00.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

NOTE.—In its latest price-list the Smithsonian Institution publishes this note: "The publications of the Smithsonian Institution are: 1, Contributions to knowledge; 2, Miscellaneous collections; 3, annual reports; 4, special publications. No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The volumes of Contributions and of Miscellaneous collections are distributed only to public libraries and to learned institutions and societies in this country and abroad. A small edition of the papers in these two series is printed separately for sale or exchange. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remains to supply demands from other sources. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be had by purchase from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. The papers printed in the annual reports are published separately for free distribution. Publications should be ordered by the serial number. Remittances should be made payable to 'Smithsonian Institution.' An application from a library should state the number of volumes in the library and the date of establishment, and have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.

Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given, octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 61st Congress, 1st session, is to be understood.

Notes of General Interest

Drug legislation in the United States and in the States, revised to July 15, 1908, is one of the publications of the month in which there is an active interest.

Transportation routes and systems of the world, the development of steam-carrying power on land and sea, 1800–1908, and table of distances from New York, New Orleans, San Francisco, and Port Townsend to principal ports of the world and principal cities of United States, is the title of a new monograph which is sure to be popular.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has started a new series of documents called Conference rulings. Bulletin 3, issued April 12, cancels and includes nos. 1 and 2. These rulings, though made in conference by the Commission as a body, differ from the decisions published in the set of Interstate Commerce Commission Reports, the latter being made by the Commission sitting as a court and hearing evidence and argument.

Volume 14 of the Interstate Commerce Commission Reports has been issued during April. It has over 800 pages, is bound in full leather, and is sold by the Superintendent of Documents at $2.00.

That well-known document, Circular 3 of the Publications Division, Agriculture Department, which lists the agricultural bulletins sold by the Superintendent of Documents, has changed from a numerical to an alphabetical form. Users may at first find the new form awkward, but when they have become accustomed to it they will probably like it better than the old.

Agriculture Department Report 89 is one of three parts of a report by Drs. Wiley and Merriam of that Department on Durability and economy in papers for permanent records. The subtitle of this part is Paper specifications. The other parts are: Chemistry Bureau Circular 41, Paper-making materials and their conservation, and Suitable papers for permanent records, an article in the Yearbook of the Department of Agriculture for 1908, not yet published. The authors in their letter of transmittal accompanying Part 3 do not hesitate to assert without qualification that the paper now used for publishing the results of the scientific researches of the Government "is highly perishable, its life in many instances being only a few years," and "urgently recommend that the necessary steps be taken to secure the printing on durable paper of at least a part of the edition of each publication of lasting value."

A practical, pertinent, and useful publication is Suggestions to authors of papers submitted for publication by Geological Survey, with directions to typewriters, by George McLane Wood, editor. It is deserving of a large circulation but has not been printed in a large edition.

Mortality from consumption in the dusty trades is the interesting title of the leading article in Labor Bureau Bulletin 79.

The 1909 meeting of the National Academy of Sciences was held in Washington during April, 1909, and by a not very remarkable coincidence the pamphlet report of the 1908 meeting was issued the same month.

The pamphlet reports for 1908 of the governors of Alaska and New Mexico and of the superintendent of Yellowstone Park contain large-scale maps.

Roster of organized militia of United States, with their stations, Feb. 28, 1909, is one of the April publications.

Session laws, 60th Congress, 2d session, has been issued in two paper-bound parts, sold at $1.00 each. Statutes at large, for both sessions of the 60th Congress, in 3 vols., law sheep, is expected next month.

The complete verbatim edition of Proceedings of conference of governors in the White House, Washington, D. C., May 13–15, 1908, is now available in a cloth-bound volume of 451 pages at 75c. Address Superintendent of Documents.

An Experimental investigation of biting of man by fleas from rats and squirrels has been made by the Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service. This is a matter of importance because of the belief that plague is transmitted to man by fleas parasitic upon rats. So far as this investigation goes, that theory is confirmed. Rat fleas are found to be fond of man, preferring him, in fact, to the beasts which are their natural habitat. The name of the man experimented upon is withheld.

Hinds's Precedents of the House of Representatives, a monumental work in 8 royal octavo volumes, is through the press, though all the volumes are not yet out of the binders' hands. It is H. doc. 355, 59th Cong. 2d sess., in vols. 79–85, pt. 2, serial nos. 5182–88, vol. 2.

The Justice Department is the first Department out with the catalogue of its exhibit at the Seattle Exposition to be held this year.

The latest list giving Location and area of national forests in United States, Alaska, and Porto Rico, makes the national forests number 149, covering an aggregate area of 194,500,043 acres.

New arbitration treaties with China, Denmark, and the Netherlands have been published.

Bulletin 372, Geological Survey, is a Bibliography of North American geology for 1906 and 1907, and a more extensive one than might be supposed. Evidently the literature of geology is rapidly increasing in volume.

Bulletins 341 and 342, Geological Survey, Contributions to economic geology, 1907, is one of a long annual series, each number growing larger, till now it is necessary not only to print it in two bulletins instead of one, but to split the two into several "separates", each one of which is a pamphlet of respectable size. This month's separates are entitled Investigations of coal fields of Wyoming; Investigations of coal fields of Colorado, New Mexico, Utah, Oregon, and Virginia; and Investigations of coal fields of North Dakota and Montana.

Many of the early numbers of the Farmers' bulletins—standard favorites with the reading class of farmers—have lately been reprinted. Among them are no. 22, Feeding of farm animals; 33, Peach growing for market; 34, Meats, composition and cooking; 56, Experiment station work 1; 61, Asparagus culture; 64, Ducks and geese; 66, Meadows and pastures; 183, Meat on the farm, butchering, curing, and keeping; 187, Drainage of farm lands; 188, Weeds used in medicines; and 203, Canned fruit, preserves, and jellies, household methods of preparation.

ADVANCE SHEETS OF THIRD EDITION OF CHECKLIST OF UNITED STATES PUBLIC DOCUMENTS

Under the new provisions of law which take the annual reports and serials out of the Congressional set as distributed to the depository libraries, beginning with the 60th Congress, 1st session, there is no longer any valid reason for not assigning serial numbers to the lettered volumes of private reports of the committees of the Senate and House of Representatives. This decision has been made by this Office since the serial numbers were assigned in a preliminary schedule of volumes, which was not printed for distribution. The serial numbers, however, having been changed so as to include the lettered volumes of private reports, the following changes are required in certain Advance sheets in order to make the serial numbers agree with those as assigned in the final Schedule of volumes, 60th Congress, 1st session, just issued from press:

THORPE'S CONSTITUTIONS AND CHARTERS

This extensive compilation, for which Congress, after several years' delay, has paid Professor Francis Newton Thorpe $10,000, is scheduled to be issued as House document 357, 59th Congress, 2d session, in 5 vols. (87–91), but it is now found that it will fill 7 volumes of about 700 pages each, necessitating the issue of volume 91, House documents, 59th Congress, 2d session, in 3 parts. Three volumes have come from the binders thus far and work is being pushed on the others. The full title of this work is The Federal and State constitutions, colonial charters, and other organic laws of the States, Territories, and colonies now or heretofore forming the United States of America.

WAR AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION

The 13th amendment, abolishing slavery, was submitted by Congress to the States Feb. 1, 1865, and by proclamation of the Secretary of State, Dec. 18, 1865, was declared to have been ratified by the necessary number of States. The proceedings concerning it are recorded in the Senate and House Journals, the Congressional globe, and the Documentary history of the Constitution. No document or committee report relating to it has been found in the Congressional numbered series.

The 14th amendment, conferring citizenship on freedmen, was passed June 13, 1866, and was forwarded to the States soon after, as shown in a message from President Johnson found at page 3349 of the Congressional globe, 39th Congress, 1st session, part 4. The amendment was carried through Congress as House joint resolution 127, and the proceedings concerning it are contained in the Globe for the 39th Congress, 1st session, parts 3 and 4. The indexing of these volumes is very confused and inadequate, there being no history of bills and resolutions. On page xi of the Indexes in each volume the best references under H. R. 127 are found. Others can be found under the names of the most prominent Senators and Representatives. Some of the speeches may be found under these references: May 8, 1866, Stevens, page 2459; May 8, 1866, Blaine, page 2460; May 10, 1866, Randall, page 2530; May 10, 1866, Strouse, page 2531; May 10, 1866, Banks, page 2532. Debate continued quite frequently from April 30, 1866 (page 2286, part 3), when Mr. Stevens reported the amendment from the Committee on Reconstruction, to June 13, when the final vote was taken. The discussion runs through parts 3 and 4 of the Globe for the 1st session of the 39th Congress.

The 15th amendment, giving the suffrage to freedmen, was adopted Feb. 26, 1869 (page 1641, Globe, 40th Congress, 3d session, part 3). It was Senate joint resolution 8, and the references thereto are found under that heading on page xvi of the Index. From Jan. 15, 1869, when the resolution was reported from the Committee on the Judiciary (page 378), to the date of final concurrence, Feb. 26, 1869, debate on the subject was frequent and runs through parts 1, 2, and 3 of the Globe for that session.

JOURNALS OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

The Journals, containing the public proceedings, 1774–88, were reprinted by Richard Folwell, Philadelphia, 1800–01, in 13 vols. The same were reprinted by Way and Gideon, Washington, 1823, in 4 vols. The Secret Journals were published by Thomas B. Wait, Boston, 1821, in 4 vols. All of these prints were bought by Congress in editions of from 300 to 1000 copies, but none is in the numbered series of Congressional documents. For a minute and interesting account of the manuscript and printed journals and papers of the Continental Congress to that time, see paper by Herbert Friedenwald in Report of American Historical Association, 1896, vol. 1.

The more complete edition, edited by Worthington C. Ford from the original manuscript and published by the Library of Congress, publication having begun in 1904, has now reached 13 vols. and may run to 25 vols. Like the other prints, this one is not included in the set of numbered Congressional documents, nor is there any free distribution of it. It is sold by the Superintendent of Documents at $1.00 a volume.

REPRINTS OF TREASURY REPORTS

Feb. 7, 1828, Congress directed that the annual reports of the Secretary of the Treasury be reprinted, including the reports of Alexander Hamilton, the 1st Secretary, in an edition of 600 copies. The order being indefinite, the reprinting was continued till 1849, filling seven leather-bound volumes. Vol. 1 contains Hamilton's famous reports on Public credit, a National bank, Manufactures, and the Establishment of a mint, but no regular annual report from him. The 1st annual report reprinted is Gallatin's of 1801, and thereafter there is a consecutive series. The seven vols. of reprints are not in the numbered series of Congressional documents.

FRANCO-AMERICAN CLAIMS COMMISSION

Besides the documents sent to Congress by the Commission, or concerning it, the Commission had printed by Gibson Bros., Washington, these titles: List of claims, 1883, 104 pages, octavo; Final report of the agent and counsel of the U. S., 1884, 171 pages, quarto; numerous briefs, and a compilation of briefs and other records, in 78 vols., octavo, of which, according to official information, the edition was "confined probably to ten copies or so." Sets are in the State Department and the Library of Congress.

ELLIOT'S COMPILATIONS

Jonathan Elliot, an Englishman, born 1784, settled in Washington in 1814, and became a noted editor and compiler of public documents. Beside his two extensive compilations which are numbered Congressional documents (Comparative tariffs of foreign nations upon imports, 27th Cong. 2d sess., S. doc. 210, and The funding system of the United States and of Great Britain, 28th Cong. 1st sess., H. doc. 15) he published The American diplomatic code, which is the first collection of American treaties (1st edition, 1827, 1 vol.; 2d edition, 1834, 2 vols.) Also, Debates in the several State Conventions on the adoption of the Federal Constitution; (1st edition, 1827–30, 4 vols.; 2d edition, 1836; a 5th vol., containing Madison's report of the proceedings of the Federal Convention of 1787, was added in 1845, and 5 vol. editions were published in Washington, 1854, and Philadelphia, 1861). Though these important works are not in the numbered series, they became public documents in the usual fashion of those days, by Congress buying editions for distribution by its members. Mr. Elliot died in Washington, March 12, 1846.

FREE VERSUS SALE DISTRIBUTION

A recent newspaper letter concerning the publications of the Carnegie Institution of Washington quotes President Woodward as saying that the necessary limitation on the free distribution of publications has led to a marked increase in their sale. Although the broad question of the duties of the institution to the public in this matter still gives rise to explanatory and controversial correspondence, it is plain that the policy now adopted will soon meet with general approval. It is apparent that when the fact becomes generally known that editions are limited to 1,000 copies or less the public will be willing to buy at the mere cost of production and transportation the surplus of copies not needed for distribution among the libraries. This mode of disposition of publications will furnish one of the best standards of their value.

NOT AVAILABLE

The Making of a book, a 77-page pamphlet entered in the Monthly catalogue for March, 1909, to the credit of the Government Printing Office, was printed for office use exclusively, and is not available either free or by purchase at present. Numerous requests have been received, regardless of the fact that the double dagger was affixed to the entry, indicating that it is not obtainable. It is suggested that a study of the symbols by the users of the Monthly catalogue would avoid much unnecessary correspondence and confusion.

NOTABLE REPORTS AND ADDRESSES

A list, continued from the March Monthly catalogue, of a few of the notable reports and addresses that have been made to Congress, showing where they may be found in the "sheep set":

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

Note.—In its latest price-list the Smithsonian Institution publishes this note: "The publications of the Smithsonian Institution are: 1, Contributions to knowledge; 2, Miscellaneous collections; 3, annual reports; 4, special publications. No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The volumes of Contributions and of Miscellaneous collections are distributed only to public libraries and to learned institutions and societies in this country and abroad. A small edition of the papers in these two series is printed separately for sale or exchange. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remains to supply demands from other sources. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be had by purchase from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. The papers printed in the annual reports are published separately for free distribution. Publications should be ordered by the serial number. Remittances should be made payable to 'Smithsonian Institution.' An application from a library should state the number of volumes in the library and the date of establishment, and have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.

Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given, octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 61st Congress, 1st session, is to be understood.

Notes of General Interest

The Government frequently calls upon citizens to act as volunteer assistants in scientific work, and usually, we believe, meets a willing response. A couple of new calls of this kind are now current. The Entomology Bureau has sent out a circular letter asking for samples of diseased honeycomb. It wishes to make bacteriological examinations in order to determine whether new diseases are attacking the American busy bee. The Forest Service has also a very recent circular letter in circulation. It is addressed to teachers, and seeks to enlist them—and through them the army of American school children, computed to be now about 18,000,000 strong—in a plan for tree observation. The Service wishes to obtain more definite knowledge than it now possesses as to the leafing, blossoming, and fruiting of forest trees, and takes this method of enlisting multitudes of observers in all parts of the country.

The agreement to submit certain claims to arbitration, which was entered into at Caracas Feb. 13, 1909, by the Venezuelan Minister of Foreign Affairs and Mr. Buchanan, special commissioner of the United States, has now been published in English and Spanish.

Getting it down to exact figures is the purpose of Statistics Bureau Bulletin 73, Agriculture Department, entitled Cost of producing Minnesota farm products, 1902–07.

The War Department has issued a Circular showing absences otherwise than temporary of officers of the line of the Army detached from their corps or arms of service, July, 1902–Dec. 1908.

Circular 90, Public Roads Office, has this comprehensive title: Progress reports of experiments in dust prevention, road preservation, and road construction. The experiments have been numerous and their results are receiving careful study.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has issued a new edition, dated May 1, 1909, of the Act to regulate commerce (the original Sherman act of 1887), with the laws amendatory of and supplementary thereto, with other cognate acts, namely: the safety appliance act, the act requiring monthly reports of accidents, the arbitration act, and the hours of service act.

Under date of May 13 the President issued an Executive order establishing the General Supply Committee, which is to buy all supplies for Government use. Thus the Government will be one buyer instead of many and will pay one price instead of several varying prices for the same supplies.

Bulletin 3, series of 1909, Education Bureau, has the title Daily meals of school children. Some persons may think this has nothing to do with education, but in this they are much mistaken.

Primer of Forestry, part 2, Practical forestry, has now been issued in cheap popular form as Farmers' bulletin 358.

From the General Land Office comes a new print of the mining laws, or, more correctly, the laws relating to mineral lands owned by the Government.

The Post-Office Department publishes a report of extensive investigations of pneumatic-tube service for the mails.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has issued a Table of cases and opinions covering the work of the Commission from the beginning in Apr. 1887, to Jan. 1909, and all references to the reported decisions of the Commission, vols. 1–15. Vol. 15, thus indexed, is not yet published, though it is in press.

Contributions from the National Herbarium, vol. 12, pt. 9, contains a botanical romance, the Rediscovery of Echeveria carnicolor.

Folio 164 of the Geologic atlas of the United States is of special interest because it maps one of the big irrigation projects, the Belle Fourche in South Dakota.

Report 88, Department of Agriculture, is the report of the Referee Board of Consulting Scientific Experts on the popular preservative, benzoate of soda, or sodium benzoate, declaring that it is not injurious to health. The signers of Report 88 are Dr. Ira Remsen, president of Johns Hopkins University, Professor Russell H. Chittenden of Yale University, Professor John H. Long of Northwestern University, and Professor Christian A. Herter of Columbia University.

Two new publications of the Agriculture Department will probably be found to fill long-felt wants. One is Biological Survey Bureau Bulletin 33, The brown rat in the United States, which gives extended information as to the best methods of mitigating this worst of mammalian pests; the other is Experiment Stations Office Circular 83, The American system of agricultural education, illustrated with plates of buildings and classes.

Volumes 13 and 14 of the Library of Congress edition of the Journals of the Continental Congress were issued during May.

Volumes 4–6 of Thorpe's Constitutions and charters have been received, and it is likely that volume 7, completing the set, will be out of the bindery by the time these lines reach the reader. This important work is to be sold by the Superintendent of Documents in sets only at $5.25 in cloth binding.

The Interstate Commerce Commission republishes in a pamphlet a recent decision of the United States district court for the northern district of Illinois construing the hours-of-service law. The court holds that a period of nine hours means nine continuous and consecutive hours, and that a railroad had violated the law in requiring certain men to work from 6.30 p. m. to 12 m., "lay off" from 12 to 3, then work from 3 to 6.30 a. m. The work was only 9 hours, but the detention and control were 12 hours.

Volume 35, National Museum Proceedings, is one of the May publications. It is more fully illustrated than usual.

Labor Bureau Bulletin 80 has an 85-page paper on Woman and child wage-earners in Great Britain.

A report for which there has been considerable inquiry and which is the result of extensive and prolonged investigation is the Report of the commissioner of corporations on the tobacco industry. Part 1, entitled Position of the tobacco combination in the industry, is entered in this catalogue. It is a volume of 489 pages, and gives a history of the "combination"—which is sometimes spoken of as the "trust."

Public Roads Office Bulletin 35, written by Assistant Road Director Cushman and embodying the results of his extensive experimenting, is entitled Preservation of iron and steel.

The 8th decennial revision of the Pharmacopœia of the United States, issued 1905, was the occasion for a vast number of comments and criticisms from medical journals and interested persons in this and other countries. These very numerous comments, up to the close of the year 1905, have been collected and summarized by the Pharmacology Division of the Hygienic Laboratory of the Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service and published as Bulletin 49 of the Laboratory under the title Digest of comments on the Pharmacopœia of the United States. It is a book of 295 pages, and gives to those interested a variety of suggestions and opinions of more or less value.

GEOGRAPHIC BOARD

The United States Board on Geographic Names was appointed by President Harrison, Sept. 4, 1890, with ten members, representing the State Department, the Coast Survey, the Light-House Board, the Engineer Corps, the Hydrographic Office, the Post-Office Department, the Smithsonian Institution, and the Geological Survey. It was provided that the members, all of whom were already in the Government service, should not receive any additional compensation for their service on the Board, and their term of service was not limited in time. The Board is still in existence, and its decisions as to the orthography of geographical names are the accepted standard in all branches of the United States service. By Executive order, dated Aug. 10, 1906, the name of the Board was changed to United States Geographic Board.

GREENHOW'S HISTORY OF THE NORTHWEST COAST

Congress bought 1500 copies of Greenhow's History of Oregon, California, and other Territories of the Northwest Coast, in 1845. It is a work of high authority, an expansion of his Memoir on the Northwest Coast, which was published as a numbered Congressional document in 1840 (26th Cong. 1st sess., S. doc. 174). The larger history was not issued as a numbered document. Greenhow was noted for scholarship and for the possession of an extraordinary memory. He was a Virginian, born in 1800, and served as translator in the State Department, 1828–50. He died in California, 1854.

JOURNALS OF THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION

In a special message dated Dec. 16, 1821, President Monroe stated that in pursuance of a resolution of March 27, 1818, "1000 copies of the journals and acts of the Convention which formed the Constitution have been printed and placed at the disposal of Congress." This publication is not found among the numbered Congressional documents. It was published in Boston, 1819, by T. B. Wait, in one volume, octavo, under this title: "Journal, acts, and proceedings of the Convention assembled at Philadelphia, Monday, May 14, and dissolved Monday, Sept. 17, 1787, which formed the Constitution of the United States." It is supposed to have been edited by John Quincy Adams, then Secretary of State.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

NOTE.—In its latest price-list the Smithsonian Institution publishes this note: "The publications of the Smithsonian Institution are: 1, Contributions to knowledge; 2, Miscellaneous collections; 3, annual reports; 4, special publications. No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The volumes of Contributions and of Miscellaneous collections are distributed only to public libraries and to learned institutions and societies in this country and abroad. A small edition of the papers in these two series is printed separately for sale or exchange. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remains to supply demands from other sources. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be had by purchase from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. The papers printed in the annual reports are published separately for free distribution. Publications should be ordered by the serial number. Remittances should be made payable to 'Smithsonian Institution.' An application from a library should state the number of volumes in the library and the date of establishment, and have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.

Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [ ] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given, octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 61st Congress, 1st session, is to be understood.

Notes of General Interest

The Attorney-General of the United States has recently appeared before the Court of Appeals of the State of Georgia in a private litigation arising under the Federal Employers' Liability Act of April 22, 1908, and in support of the constitutionality of that act filed an elaborate brief (90 pages), which is one of the June publications of the Government. In a "preliminary statement" Gen. Wickersham says: "In thus participating in private litigation the Attorney-General feels that it is proper to say at the outset that the Government has no interest in any other question involved in this case except the constitutionality of the act referred to, and has asked the court to be heard, not for the purpose of assisting the plaintiff to recover, but solely because the validity of a wholesome and important act of Congress, passed for the protection of a vast number of citizens and for the safety of interstate commerce, is directly challenged." The unusual appearance of the head of the Department of Justice in a State court, and his fullness of citation in maintaining the constitutionality of a new law in which so many citizens are vitally interested, give importance to the Government brief in the case, which is entitled Central of Georgia Railway Company, plaintiff in error, v. Victoria Waldo, administratrix, defendant in error.

Bulletin 81, Bureau of Labor, dated Mar. 1909, but issued in June, has for its leading article Wholesale prices, 1890 to 1908. Everybody knows there has been a tremendous advance in prices, but this article, with its statistical tables, enables the reader to determine in figures what the advance has been and on which items in the list of principal staple commodities.

One of the Government's most useful annual manuals, the Statistical abstract, has just been issued for 1908, a little later than usual, but none the less welcome. The major part of its statistics cover the century and more from the beginning of the year 1800 to the end of the year 1908. The scope of the information given may be inferred from the titles under which it is grouped, namely: Area, natural resources, and population; Agriculture, forestry, and fisheries; Manufacturing and mining industries, and patents; Occupations, labor, and wages; Internal commerce and transportation; Mercantile marine and shipping; Foreign commerce; Internal commerce—commercial failures; Commerce of noncontiguous territory; Prices; Consumption estimates; Money, banking, and insurance; Wealth and public finance; Army, Navy, and pensions; Statistical record of the progress of the United States; Monetary, commercial, and financial statistics of the principal countries of the world.

Sixtieth Cong. 2d sess., S. doc. 735, is the final report of the Jamestown Tercentennial Commission. This Commission, composed of the secretaries of the Treasury, War, and the Navy, had general supervision of the Jamestown Exposition. Their report is illustrated by numerous full-page photographs.

The latest number in the series of Library of Congress bibliographies is List of works relating to Supreme Court of United States.

Edward L. Thorndike is author of Bulletin 4, series of 1909, from the Bureau of Education, and his interesting subject is Teaching staff of secondary schools of United States, amount of education, length of experience, salaries. The pamphlet includes a list of authorities and an index in its 60 pages.

In a new pamphlet, Laws relating to the Department of the Interior passed at the second session of the 60th Congress, is included an act to codify, revise, and amend the penal laws of the United States. This is the only part of the revision of the statutes, in progress for about ten years past, that has yet been reënacted and published. It was first printed as Public act 350, 60th Cong. 2d sess., in an unbound pamphlet of 80 pages, and is still available in that form. It takes effect Jan. 1, 1910.

Plant Industry Bureau Bulletin 139, American medicinal barks, by Alice Henkel, is another in an exceedingly popular series, of which Bulletin 89, Wild medicinal plants of the United States; Bulletin 107, American root drugs; Bulletin 51, part 6, Golden seal; Bulletin 90, part 3, Peppermint; Circular 6, Cultivation and handling of golden seal; Farmers' bulletin 188, Weeds used in medicine, all by the same author, are the earlier numbers.

Entomology Bureau Bulletin 79, Fumigation investigations [with hydrocyanic-acid gas] in California, is published with the purpose of making the art of fumigation simple and easy of practice. The author, Mr. Woglum, declares that it is not complex or mysterious, and says that "the improved system outlined in these pages shows how simple the practice of fumigation may be made." Orchardists may possess outfits of their own, or by association with neighbors, and do the work with their own employees.

Circular 29, Office of the Secretary of Agriculture, is likely to put one so-called remedy out of business. It gives the results of an analysis of a widely advertised serum for use by cattle owners. The analysis shows that the alleged remedy contains no serum at all. It is found to be 98 per cent water, with a little carbolic acid and oil of cloves and a very small proportion of what appears to be some form of vegetable matter. The Secretary's circular gives name and location of the manufacturer in full.

Census Bureau Bulletin 100 is a collection of statistics concerning Cotton production, 1908.

Geological Survey Bulletin 373 presents a subject of both economical and esthetical interest, namely Smokeless consumption of coal in boiler plants.

Interstate Commerce Commission Reports is a series in much demand at present. Volume 15, in buckram or leather binding, is now being delivered. It contains, in addition to the usual contents, a table of commodities that have been mentioned in any of the 15 volumes. This series is made up of reports of the legal decisions made by the Commission in transportation cases. They should not be confused with the Annual reports of the Commission.

The National Association of Railway Commissioners held its 20th annual convention in Washington, Oct. 1908. The official report of its proceedings is now published.

Foreign relations, 1906, in 2 parts, is one of the publications of June, 1909. This date of publication further justifies the statement of Gen. John W. Foster, formerly Secretary of State, in his Century of American diplomacy, that the State Department "exercises a large discretion in withholding diplomatic dispatches from publication."

A handy little narrow pocketbook is the one entitled Questions and answers relating to reclamation act and its operations, issued by the Reclamation Service. In the form of question and answer it gives the sort of information about the Reclamation Service and its work that the inquiring mind of the average American citizen is likely to seek.

The annual report on the beet sugar industry for 1908 (Agriculture Department Report 90), shows a decrease of 37,744 tons in production as compared with 1907.

Bulletin 8, series of 1909, Bureau of Education, is a most interesting list of 100 titles for a teacher's professional library.

Forest Service Circular 165 combines and supersedes Circulars 21 and 22. Its title is Practical assistance to owners of forest land and to tree planters. It tells how and why the Forest Service offers assistance to owners of woodland.

Work of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, 2d edition, is a pamphlet in which the Survey describes and explains its important functions. Much of its work is highly technical, but the pamphlet is not at all so, and may be read with interest and profit by the average man.

The scope of the examinations of applicants for appointment in the civil service of the United States may be dimly guessed at by running over the list of examinations which were announced by the Civil Service Commission during the single month of June, 1909. Examinations for the purpose of securing lists of eligibles for the following places were announced—and there may have been others which escaped the notice of this commentator: Aid and deck officer, Coast and Geodetic Survey; Apprentice plate cleaner, transferrer, and engraver, Bureau of Engraving and Printing; Architectural draftsman, for the Philippines; Assistant classifier, Geological Survey; Chemical assistant in dairying, Animal Industry Bureau; Civil engineer, Surveyor, and Transitman, Engineer Department, U. S. A.; Clerk-translator, Post-Office Department; Computer, Supervising Architect's Office; Designer of bridges and buildings, Philippine Service; Editor, Education Bureau; Engineer in wood preservation, Forest Service; Guard, United States Penitentiary Service; Laboratory helper, Chemistry Bureau; Laundryman, Freedmen's Hospital; Physician, Panama Canal Service; Poultry laborer, Animal Industry Bureau; Pathologist, Freedmen's Hospital; Topographic draftsman, Coast and Geodetic Survey; Trained nurse (male), Panama Canal Service. The pay offered for these places ranges from $420 a year for the laundryman to $2,000 for the editor.

There is a new edition of a useful manual, much inquired for, namely, Fruits recommended by the American Pomological Society for cultivation in the various sections of the United States and Canada. It is revised to date by an expert committee of the Society.

The Rev. William N. Brewster, Hinghua, Fukien, China, has prepared a note on Chinese cultural methods for the leitchee (Litchi chinensis), and the Plant Industry Bureau has published it in a leaflet. The leitchee is a Chinese fruit, and from Mr. Brewster's description apparently a delectable one.

Information for boards of examiners concerning applications, examinations, and appointments is a new manual issued by the Civil Service Commission. The examiners require information as well as the examined.

Often matter that would interest nonprofessional as well as professional readers is concealed in technical publications of the Government. Some of it is coming to light in a set of leaflets under the general title Reprint of hydrographic information from Pilot charts and Hydrographic bulletin published by the United States Hydrographic Office. No. 1 was issued Mar. 24 last. Each one has a subtitle of its own and is a brief essay on some important phase of sea lore. No. 5, on Submarine sound signals, issued June 30, is perhaps of as much interest as any, though either one of the series would rank well in a popular magazine.

A fourth Pan-American Conference is appointed for May, 1910, at Buenos Aires, the capital city of Argentina. A tentative programme for it has been issued by the International Bureau of the American Republics.

The quarterly bulletin of Railroad accidents in the United States for the first three months of the present year shows that 663 were killed and 15,122 were injured during Jan., Feb., and Mar., 1909. Dreadful as this record is, it does not include fatal and other accidents to persons not passengers or employees. That deadly class known as crossing accidents is thus excluded from the count. The record is strictly limited to passengers in transit and to employees on duty, and even accidents to employees on duty are not reported unless the victims are kept away from work for more than three days. If the unreported casualties should be added to the 15,785 reported, would not the aggregate be startling? And why should they not be added?

Part 1, New England, of the report on Taxation of corporations, by the commissioner of corporations, shows the systems of taxing manufacturing, mercantile, transportation, and transmission corporations in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut.

Animal Industry Bureau Bulletin 112, The loco-weed disease of the plains, is a 130-page discussion of a subject of momentous importance to western stockmen. The author, Dr. Marsh, has demonstrated that the suspected weeds do really cause the disease and has suggested methods of curative treatment.

The learned report of the Solicitor-General to the President upon certain questions submitted to him concerning the meaning of the term "whisky" is now printed, and should interest both sides of the great national "wet" and "dry" controversy.

All of the publications referred to in these notes are June issues of the Government Printing Office.

NOTABLE REPORTS AND ADDRESSES

A list, continued from the May Monthly catalogue, of a few of the notable reports and addresses that have been made to Congress, showing where they may be found in the "sheep set":

Salomon, Haym.
Report in favor of granting gold medal to descendants of Salomon in recognition of his unpaid advances of money to the patriot cause during the Revolutionary War. 52d Cong. 2d sess., H. rp. 2556. [It appears by the evidence cited that besides large advances to the Government Mr. Salomon supported from his private means some of the most prominent men of the Revolution, who otherwise would not have been able to discharge their public duties. The statement is quoted from Robert Morris that many must have gone to jail for debt but for such assistance. Among those mentioned as supported by Mr. Salomon are Jefferson, Madison, Lee, Steuben, Mifflin, Mercer, Monroe, and St. Clair. No evidence has been found that the medal was granted.]

Topographic sheets

NOTE.—The Geological Survey is making a topographic map of the United States. The sheets of which it is composed are projected without reference to political divisions, and are designated by some prominent town or natural feature found on them. Three scales are used, 1 : 62,500, 1 : 125,000, and 1 : 250,000. These correspond, approximately, to 1 mile, 2 miles, and 4 miles to 1 linear inch on the map. The size, unless otherwise given, is about 17.5 inches in height by 11.5 to 16 inches in width, exclusive of the margin, the width varying with the latitude. A description of the topographic map is printed on the reverse of each sheet.

About one-third of the area of the country excluding outlying possessions, has been mapped, nearly every State being represented. Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, and the District of Columbia are completely mapped. Sheets of the regular size are sold by the Survey at 5c. each; but in lots of 100 or more copies, whether of the same sheet or of different sheets, the price is 3c. each. In no case can orders be filled at the wholesale rate unless the sum remitted solely for topographic maps amounts to at least $3.00.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

NOTE.—In its latest price-list the Smithsonian Institution publishes this note: "The publications of the Smithsonian Institution are: 1, Contributions to knowledge; 2, Miscellaneous collections; 3, annual reports; 4, special publications. No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The volumes of Contributions and of Miscellaneous collections are distributed only to public libraries and to learned institutions and societies in this country and abroad. A small edition of the papers in these two series is printed separately for sale or exchange. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remains to supply demands from other sources. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be had by purchase from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. The papers printed in the annual reports are published separately for free distribution. Publications should be ordered by the serial number. Remittances should be made payable to 'Smithsonian Institution.' An application from a library should state the number of volumes in the library and the date of establishment, and have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.
